Advance.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, May 3.—More than 1000 vacant apartments were thrown on the market over the week end and real estate dealers are in a quandary.
Hundreds of families whose rentals had been increased moved out May 1 without warning. Rents have advanced in many cases from 50 to 200 per cent. The unexpected vacating of supply and demand justified the increase.

MAN, 82, KNOCKED DOWN AND KILLED BY HORSE

Pana Resident Trying to Warn

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PANA, Ill., May 3.—Michael Dempsy, 82 years old, a resident of Pana, while trying to warn Mrs. Clay Johnson that a train was approaching the crossing today, was knocked down and killed by the horse she was driving.

Last week he made his will giving all his property to Leo J. Gossman, son of a neighbor who is a student in Chicago. Dempsy was reared by the late Judge Thomas Dale of Edwardsville and came to Pana in 1844.

phants stampeded at a local amusement park yesterday afternoon. The animals were swimming in a lake, when a dog jumped into the water and grabbed one of the beasts. The animals howled over their keepers, demolished fences and lawns. They were captured five miles east of the city.

JOHNSON GIVES UP RECOUNT PLAN

Supporters Announce Decision as to New Jersey Primary.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 3.—Supporters of Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California have abandoned their plans for a recount of votes cast in the New Jersey presidential primary last Tuesday. It was announced late today by A. C. Joy, assistant Eastern campaign manager, after a conference of Johnson leaders lasting most of the day.

Last night Joy announced this decision was likely because a $50,000 deposit was required of Johnson in the decision ordering the recount.

20,000 TEXTILE WORKERS STRIKE IN NEW BEDFORD

Addition to Duties of Loom Fixers Proposed by Employers Causes Walkout of All Operatives.

EMPLOYEES QUIT AT 37 COTTON MILLS

Demands for 17½ Per Cent Wage Increases at All New England Mills to Be Made, Vice President Says.

By the Associated Press.
NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 3.—
A strike of approximately 20,000 operatives went into effect at 57 cotton cloth mills in this city today.
The walkout was occasioned by the posting of notices relative to working conditions for the loom fixers who were required to operate more looms than formerly.

The loom fixers struck several weeks ago and their protest received the support of the textile council, which ordered today's general strike. Early police reports from the mill gates indicated that only a small percentage of workers reported for duty and that many of them left the mills soon after entering. Special details of police kept pickets moving and no disorder was reported.

The cloth mills affected are operated by 18 corporations with a weekly payroll of $37,000 and having 50,317 looms and 1,236,652 spindles. Three companies are not involved, as the notices to which the loom fixers objected, were not posted in their mills. The yarn mills also are not affected.

Mayor Charles S. Ashley was successful in an effort to arrange a conference between the textile council and the New Bedford Optic Manufacturers' Association. The association's board of directors requested, on the ground that the strike was the workers' "own creation." The manufacturers claim that the "closed shop" issue is involved.

Demands for a 50 per cent increase in wages have been voted by the various unions of the textile council, but are being withheld for the present.

Reports from other textile councils indicated a state of unrest in the industry. Thomas E. McMahon, vice president of the United Textile Workers' Board of the organization, at Lawrence, the local branch of the Amalgamated Textile Workers of America has decided to request a 50 per cent increase in wages, a 44 hour week and recognition of their union.

Saw Mill Men in Wisconsin Strike for 8-Hour Day.

WISCONSIN, May 3.—To enforce demands for an eight-hour day, 2000 men employed in a box factory, flooring mills and saw mills of this city and Menominee, Mich., did not resume work when the whistle blew this morning. Only one mill sawed any logs, and that was operating with a half crew.

8 DUTCH COMPANIES FORM BIG STEAMSHIP COMBINATION

Holland-American and Royal Dutch Lines in Merger Seeking Business in Far East.

By the Associated Press.
THE HAGUE, May 3.—Eight Dutch steamship companies have formed the United Dutch Navigation Co., probably the largest combination since the International Mercantile Marine. They announced the principal effort of the combination would be directed toward new lines to Australia, the Far East and Africa, and toward control of trade routes to North and South America.

The company is backed by capital of 250,000,000 guilders (about $50-000,000) and includes the Holland-American Line, Royal Dutch Steamship Co., Netherlands Co., Java-China-Japan Line, Royal Packet Co., Rotterdam-Lloyd Line, Maas Navigation Co., the Van Leeuw Gondraan & Co. of Rotterdam.

DEAD MAN ROBBED AFTER CRASH

By the Associated Press.
MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., May 3.—
Evidence that George H. Weaver, vice-president of the Remington Typewriter Co., killed early yesterday in an automobile accident on the White Plains Road, was robbed after the accident, was found today by the Coroner. The dead man's pocketbook with no money in it was found a half mile from the wreckage.
The Coroner said he was seeking a young woman, who dined with Weaver at a restaurant late Saturday night.

LARKIN GETS 5 TO TEN YEARS FOR CRIMINAL ANARCHY

NEW YORK, May 3.—Extraordinary proceedings were taken today when James J. Larkin, Irish agitator convicted last week of criminal anarchy, was sentenced to five to 10 years in State prison with hard labor.

Fifteen detectives and several deputies guarded the courtroom which was filled with Larkin sympathizers.
Names and addresses of spectators were taken at the door. Men were searched. Several were excluded for attempting a boisterous demonstration and one young

ROOSEVELT 2-CENT PIECE AUTHORIZED BY SENATE BILL

Landing of Pilgrims to Be Commemorated by 50-Cent Coin Issue.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 3.—Coinage of a Roosevelt 2-cent piece is authorized by a bill passed today by the Senate. Senator King, Democrat, Utah, objected to the authorization, but withdrew his objection after other Senators had asserted there was a business necessity and convenience as well as a commemorative purpose to be served by the action.

The Senate also acted favorably on House bills authorizing coinage of the 50-cent piece to commemorate the 300th anniversary of the landing of the pilgrims and the 100th anniversary of the admission of Maine and Alabama.

AVIATORS OBSERVE ECLIPSE AT HEIGHT OF 31-2 MILES

Two Flyers From Rockaway Beach Go Up on Instructions From Navy Department.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 3.—The eclipse of the moon last night was observed here by Lieut. J. H. Tilton and W. H.
Cushing of the Rockaway Beach Naval Air Station at a height of nearly three and one-half miles.
Two lieutenants ascended in the naval hydroaeroplane, K-9, remaining in the air one and one-half hours.

The observations were made at the direction of the Navy Department. Prof. David Todd of Anchorage College assisted in the observations.
Lieut. Tilton and Lieut. Cushing reported their observations were "very satisfactory." They will be embodied in a report to be made by Prof. Todd to the Navy Department.

WILSON STOOD FOR FREEDOM OF ARMENIA AND PALESTINE

Declared in 1917 That Two Countries Should Not Remain Under
"Mohammedan Apaches."

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 3.—What was said to be President Wilson's anti-toward Turkey's control of Armenia and Palestine two months after the United States entered the war was revealed yesterday by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, in an address here at a mass meeting of American friends of Armenia.

Rabbi Wise said he thought he would commit no transgression when he told for the first time something President Wilson told him late in June 1917. According to Dr. Wise, the President said to him at that time:

"When the war will be ended there will be two lands that will never go back to the Mohammedan Apaches—one is Christian Armenia, and the other is Jewish Palestine."

RIFLE IN JEFFERSON MEMORIAL COLLECTION DISCHARGED

Weapon Among Souvenirs of Peary North Pole Expedition Was Thought Not to Be Loaded.

A rifle belonging to the collection of Peary North Pole souvenirs in the Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park was accidentally discharged Friday while being examined by a group of boys. No one was hurt.

The weapon was received with a number of other articles, including a sled, used by Peary in his successful dash for the North Pole in 1909.
The outfit had been given to the discovery by a local hardware company and when it was returned to the owners the concern presented it to the historical society.

It was supposed, as the collection had come all the way from the Arctic regions to Washington and thence to St. Louis, that no charges were left in any of the guns. The accident caused the staff at the museum to thoroughly examine all firearms in its custody.

WITNESS IN BOMB PLOT JUMPS 14 STORIES TO DEATH of Department of Justice in New York.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 3.—The fact that the Government had made several arrests in connection with the nation-wide bomb plots of last June became known today, when Andrie Salsedo, who confessed to having printed the anarchistic circulars found near the scene of the outrages, killed himself by leaping to Park Row from the fourteenth story of local headquarters of the Department of Justice.

William J. Flynn, chief of the department's Bureau of Investigation, admitted that several other men had been arrested in connection with the plots, that they had confessed and agreed to let Government witnesses. He declined, however, to give their names or to explain what parts they had played.

General Returns to Hotel After Demonstration Against U. S.—Mobs Stone Panaman Officials.

By the Associated Press.
PANAMA, May 3.—Several thousand Panamanians last night marched in a torchlight parade as a protest against the acquisition by the United States of the major portion of Panama Island for American officers as part of the Pacific defense scheme of the Panama Canal. An automobile in which Gen. Pershing was driving to a ball at the Union Club was halted by the procession and forced to return to the Tivoli Hotel.

Mobs later stoned Panama officials. Mounted police were charged and dispersed the demonstrators.
Major-General Chase H. Kennedy, commander of the American troops in the Canal Zone, following reports of reports of the rock throwing, ordered all American officers at tending the ball to leave immediately.

Earlier in the evening, Gen.
Pershing attended a reception at the Barbours hotel, where thousands of Panamanians gathered to greet him.
Pershing shook hands with him. Tomorrow he will inspect the Atlantic Canal defenses.

MORSE INDICTED CHARGED WITH VIOLATING SHIPPING BOARD ACT

Accused, With Others, of Selling American Registered Vessels to Foreigners.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 3.—An indictment charging Charles W. Morse with violating the Shipping Board act, which prohibits sale of American registered vessels to foreigners, was returned by the Federal grand jury today.

With Morse were indicted Captain W. S. Mitchell, the United States Steamship Co. and the J. G. McGol-lough Co. Judge A. N. Hand issued bench warrants upon request of Jerome Simmons, assistant Federal District Attorney, who has been conducting an investigation lasting four months.

The indictments charge that in August, 1917, the steamship John G.
McGollough was sold for $500,000 to the Government of Tunis, a French protectorate.

The sale of the vessel, which was torpedoed and sunk in May, 1915, was conducted, the complaint charged, through a Paris concern.
The shipping act of 1916, which the Government said was violated, prohibits the sale of an American-built and registered vessel to a foreign citizen without the permission of the United States Shipping Board and without giving that body an opportunity to purchase the craft at the offer of the foreign purchaser.

A penalty of five years imprisonment, a fine of $5000 or both is provided.

Morse is the founder who who was pardoned from the Atlanta penitentiary by President Taft when it was said that the former banker and shipping owner was dying.
Since his release, he has prospered greatly.

Morse was sentenced to prison in November, 1905, after his conviction of fraud which resulted in the wrecking of the National Bank of New America.

44 BODIES FOUND IN OKLAHOMA TOWN WRECKED BY TORNADO

WHOLE FAMILIES DIE IN DEMOLISHED HOMES

Nine Men in Wagon Escape by Lying in Ravine as Storm Passes Over, Taking Horses and Vehicle.

By the Associated Press.
MUSKOGEE, Ok., May 3.—At noon today 44 bodies had been taken from the debris resulting from last night's storm at Peggs, Cherokee County. Deaths are estimated to exceed this number, and it is reported 150 persons were injured.

Whole families were crushed to death when their homes were torn to pieces by the force of the gale.
Nine members of the Stevens family were killed, seven of the Littlefield family, eight persons by the name of Frank and five members of the Wilkerson family are numbered among the dead. Only three buildings remained standing after the storm.

Forty-three bodies were recovered by rescue workers from Muskogee, Tahlequah and Locust Grove. Forty-two coffins are being sent to the scene of the storm from Tahlequah, all that could be found in the city.
Temporary hospitals have been organized amid the wreckage, and scores of severely injured are being given first aid. Those who can stand the trip to Tahlequah are being taken there, where they will be placed in hospitals.

Doctors From Tahlequah.
Tahlequah doctors were the first to reach the scene. Six physicians left there immediately after the storm was sighted last night from Tahlequah. Later they sent calls for more assistance and at 6 o'clock this morning 100 automobiles with men and women relief workers were on their way to aid the injured. The only physician in Peggs, Dr. I. Hill, was killed. The stricken town had a population of about 50.

When the rescuers arrived in Peggs, they found only a heap of tattered, mud-spattered debris. A heavy rain and hail accompanied the storm, and when the workers began collecting the bodies from the ruins many were so plastered with mud that they had to be washed off before their identity could be established.

The dead were collected in shelters left by the tangled walls and roofs. Twenty were piled in one mound, while the searching parties ranged the immediate vicinity.

Frame Shack Untouched.
Doctors, nurses and assistants have worked tirelessly since early this morning to ascertain the full extent of the tornado, which struck just before dusk. The district affected is rural. The storm did not strike Chelso, but it passed at a short distance and many persons here watched it from a water tower a mile from town.

Three miles north of Chelso, Otis Ragan lived with his three children in a brick farm house. Terrified by the roar of the storm, he gathered his children about him, and they huddled together in a corner of a room, waiting for the tornado to strike. The house was demolished.

NEW YORK STORE ANNOUNCES 20 PER CENT PRICE DECREASE

Offers Reduction on $20,000,000 Stock "to Break the Backbone of High Prices."

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 3.—One of New York's largest department stores inserted advertisements in today's newspapers announcing that it would attempt "to break the backbone of high prices," by offering its $20,000,000 stock at a reduction of 20 per cent. The only goods excluded will be about $50,000 worth of merchandise purchased under price restrictions which cannot be "honorably changed."

This reduction, said the advertisement, arises from "a conscientious sense of duty" caused by Government reports that prices are still on the upward trend.

LABOR OF MEXICO REPORTED TO HAVE JOINED IN REVOLT

Declares That Workers

Nearly 10,000.

"REGIME OF HONEST MEN TO BE FORMED"

American Federation of Labor, It Is Stated by Mexican Leader, Is Expected to Vouch for Movement.

By the Associated Press.
AGUA PRIETA, Sonora, May 3.—Confirmation of widespread reports of an anti-Carranza labor movement throughout Mexico and the declaration that the American Federation of Labor is expected to give its support to the movement were made by Juan Rico, president of the Linotypers' Union of Mexico and secretary of the Executive Board of the Mexican labor party here last night.

According to Rico, the American Federation of Labor will vouch for the fact that the movement is not a Bolshevik uprising, but a legitimate attempt to achieve industrial freedom in Mexico. Rico stated that a statement from the American Federation of Labor could be expected shortly. Despite reports that the American Federation of Labor originally aided in bringing about recognition of President Carranza.

Outlining in a written statement the progress of the movement to date, Rico said:

"So far the armed forces of workers number nearly 10,000. The labor party has sent its delegates to the various states of Mexico to spread the movement."

"State of Puebla Invaded."
In Vera Cruz, Samuel O. Yudico and Eduardo Martinez have organized their forces and invaded the State of Puebla, uniting with Coahuila, Gascara and Eduardo Rodriguez and taking Zacatlan, Zacapoaxtla and Amozac.

"In Coahuila, Eduardo Moneda and Tomas Lopez across in arms with the peasants of Rio Grande. Fernando Rodarte and Reynaldo Cervantes Torres have taken up arms in Villa Garcia and Elmalbates Zacatecas. Jose L. Cortes and C. Reyes Bufa have revolted with forces from San Pedro de las Colonias. Ricardo Trevino is working with the Mexican mining union of Coahuila.

"With us, we have the movements in Yucatan and Tabasco which decided to join us in Zacatecas in the first convention of the labor party, March 10. In Tamaulipas our brethren have joined to the national call and have joined in considerable numbers the forces of General O. Gomez, a son of Sonora, who revolted from the tyrant Carranza with 3000 men."

"Workers in the Struggle."
In general all the workers of the country are in the struggle, forgetting in the face of the common interest, all personal rancors. The movement that is now in progress is developing as it were by the will of a single man.

"There is no doubt but that on the side of Carranza there are none other than robbers and assassins, and one by one we will expose those who have made vile traffic of the revolution and are not firm conservatives, seeking to sink the country to preserve the gains made."

After outlining the cause of the Mexican revolution and the assassination of its chief, Senor Rico continued:

"Carranza, apt pupil of the traitor, abandoned the people when he sought to surround himself with elements virtually as corrupt as those that were defeated at Celaya and Tlaxiaco."

Old Man of Coahuila.
The old man of Coahuila formed a clique of men anxious for power. The greedy traitor may keep his ill-gotten gains but he need not dream that he shall longer remain an absolute despot, for the day of "Carranza and his kind is passed."

In the meanwhile the victorious people are marching swiftly towards Mexico City to overthrow a regime of honest men who will forever preserve the country and its revolutionary ideals."

Senor Rico announced that the national congress of the American Federation of Labor and the Regional Congress of Mexican workers, scheduled to meet in Mexico City, July 12, would convene either in Havana or Pinar del Rio, that date, the change of place was made necessary by the situation existing in Mexico, Rico explained.

SUPREME COURT REFUSES REHEARING IN U. S. STEEL SUIT

Recess Until May 17 Taken Without Action on Prohibition Amendment.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The Supreme Court today refused the Government's request for a rehearing of the anti-trust suit against the United States Steel Corporation.

The Government's motion for a rehearing was based principally on the contention that the Court's decision in the steel case on March 1 conferred with that of April 26 ordering the dissolution of the Reading company and certain of its rail and coal subsidiaries. Both cases were decided by 4 to 3 decisions.

The court recessed until May 17 without handing down a decision on the constitutionality of the prohibition amendment and the enforcement act.

TEIPER ACQUITTED OF MURDERING HIS MOTHER

Man Once Sentenced to Life Imprisonment Found Not Guilty on Second Trial by Jury.

By the Associated Press.
BUFFALO, N. Y., May 3.—John Edward Teiper was acquitted today of the murder of his mother, Mrs. Agnes M. Teiper, after the jury had been out 71 hours. Last December he was sentenced to life imprisonment, but was granted a new trial.

The murder of Mrs. Teiper and her son, Frederick, occurred on the road between Orchard Park and Buffalo, at midnight, Jan. 30, 1918, after they had visited John in Orchard Park. John claimed that the crime was committed by a negro highwayman.

Search of records containing indictments failed to disclose one charging Teiper with his brother's murder, although an Assistant District Attorney said in court that such an indictment was pending. When this became known Teiper was released from custody and District Attorney Morgan issued the following statement:

"In this era of social unrest and Bolshevik propaganda, if, on the evidence in this case, courts and juries allow the wealthy and powerful to go free, no one can be surprised if great impetus is given such propaganda. If all the circumstances surrounding this case were known, there might be some startling revelations."

As the walls were lifted the four fell outside into the yard, and debris was scattered upon them. All are badly hurt. Many the injured in the nearby section were cured for in a Chelsea hotel last night.

Escape by Lying in Ditch.
Many narrow escapes are reported. Among those who escaped the storm safely were Walter Sutherland and eight friends, who were riding in a wagon with Sutherland when they saw the storm approaching. Sutherland hitched his team to telephone pole and the party ran a few yards ahead and fell face forward in a ditch. The storm passed overhead without injuring any of them. The horses and wagon were carried away.

A Missouri, Kansas & Texas southbound passenger train, which for more than hour had been reported as "lost" in the path of the storm between Vinita and Pryor, came into Muskogee shortly after midnight with a crippled engine. Passengers said they had observed large areas of devastated country just south of Vinita.

BRODERICK GIRL AGAIN ON TRIAL FOR KILLING STEPFATHER

Jury in Case of 16-Year-Old Girl in April Was Dismissed After Failure to Reach Verdict.

Ursula Broderick, 16 years old, was today placed on trial for the second time, for the murder of her stepfather, Joseph Woodlock, whom she shot April 14, 1919, and was exonerated by a coroner's jury on testimony that she was defending her mother. Her defense in her first trial for the killing of Woodlock, a month ago, was that she was defending herself.

The jury which heard the case last month stood 10 to 2 for conviction, and was dismissed after being held for 24½ hours. Selection of a new jury was begun in Judge Kline's Court this morning, and may continue through tomorrow, in which case testimony would begin Wednesday.

TESTIFIES LAWS CANNOT REMEDY PAPER SHORTAGE

New York Manager of Globe-Democrat Tells Senators
Only Supply and Demand
Will Regulate Situation.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, May 3.—F. St. John Richards, manager of the New York Globe-Democrat, told Senator Reed's committee investigating the print paper shortage today that he did not believe Congress could "legislate a remedy."

"Then you think that the best and only thing to do is to let the law of supply and demand regulate the situation?" asked Senator Reed.

"Yes," agreed the witness. "The shortage has resulted in the small newspapers facing extinction."

The remedy, he said, is to get into the production of paper. "Legislation is needed to limit the size of the big papers, the wastefulness and profiteering, for that is all they are. They are using all the paper they can get, and they are not printing and thus making money on any amount of paper, even at present prices. The little fellows forced into the open market cannot break even."

There were only 25 or 30 off-presses in the country, he said, and in 25 cities 111 daily papers printed 12,000,000 copies, or 44 per cent of the newspaper circulation of the country, and 74 Sunday papers sold 10,000,000 copies, or 50 per cent of the total Sunday circulation.

REPUBLICAN CHIEFS FOR NAMING 8 DELEGATES

Leaders Arrive in Kansas City and Formulate Program for Convention Wednesday.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 3.—Republican party leaders, who arrived here today in advance of the State convention Wednesday, immediately went into conference at the Coates House, which is headquarters for political manipulation, to decide what the convention should do. They included Jacob L. Babler of St. Louis, National Committeeman; W. L. Cole of Union, Chairman of the State Committee; and T. W. Hukriede of Warren, former State chairman.

They quickly developed that they were largely of one mind as to what they should have the convention do, but they were considerably disturbed as to whether the delegates from the rural districts, who are not expected to arrive until tomorrow, would be willing to ratify the program they will attempt to force through.

Temporary Roll Discussed.
In the first place they are decided that the State committee at its meeting tomorrow afternoon, shall place on the temporary roll of the convention the Tom Marks delegation from Kansas City, whose seats will be contested by a pro-Wood delegation selected at a rump convention after the Kansas City bosses ran over the Wood delegates at the country convention last week.

The contesting delegation, headed by former State Senator Gilmore and David M. Proctor, tried last week to obtain support from St. Louis and now are relying upon the country delegates to obtain the seating of their delegation.

There is little prospect that they will have success before the State committee in their efforts to get in the temporary roll, and their only hope would appear to be before the credentials committee for seats in the convention when the permanent organization is effected.

WILSON'S "REFLECTIONS" ON FRANCE ARE REGRETTED

Lodge Reads Into Senate Record Declaration Signed by Prominent Men.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 3.—Senator Lodge read into the Senate record today a declaration signed by a number of prominent men expressing regret "at the reflections recently made by the President upon our ancient ally, France, and upon Italy." The declaration referred to President Wilson's recent statement on the Fiume question in which he said "a militaristic party" had come into power in France.

Signers included Charles J. Bonaparte, former Attorney-General; Joseph H. Choate, David Jayne Hill, Myron T. Herrick, former Ambassador to France; Henry Watterson, Moorefield Storey of Boston, and William Fellows Morgan, president of the New York Merchants' Association.

Asked by Chairman Reed to give specific instances where such a censorship had been exercised, McCone declared that when Judge Elbert Gary of the United States Steel Corporation testified before a Senate committee investigating the steel trust, regarding the principle of freedom of contract, the Buffalo News received and set in type and cast into the plate an Associated Press news dispatch of his testimony, but the presses were not permitted to start

hibit the printing of more than 50 pages. Richard said such a tax could not be made to operate fairly, and called attention to the fact that from 16 to 24 pages of the Sunday Globe-Democrat are filled wholly with closely-set classified advertising, "which comes close to the people."

"Why couldn't these classified ads be sent through the week?" asked Reed. Richards said that wait ads were regarded by the people as being more effective on Sunday.

The shortage in the last six months, said Richards, had been due not alone to manufacturing trouble, but to freight disruption growing out of bad weather and strikes. He explained there must be a steady flow of paper and that if a shipment is held up, the newspaper must get a supply at whatever price it can. He believed that settlement of industrial disputes would help materially to reduce the shortage.

Jason Rogers, publisher of the New York Globe, who followed Richards, blamed the print paper shortage on "the unbusinesslike methods of the newspapers."

Rogers not only favored such a tax, which was suggested by Chairman Reed, but also advocated an additional tax on advertisements exceeding a quarter of a page in size.

Reed asked Rogers whether the large dailies to co-operate in the crisis had resulted in the small newspapers facing extinction.

The remedy, he said, is to get into the production of paper. "Legislation is needed to limit the size of the big papers, the wastefulness and profiteering, for that is all they are. They are using all the paper they can get, and they are not printing and thus making money on any amount of paper, even at present prices. The little fellows forced into the open market cannot break even."

There were only 25 or 30 off-presses in the country, he said, and in 25 cities 111 daily papers printed 12,000,000 copies, or 44 per cent of the newspaper circulation of the country, and 74 Sunday papers sold 10,000,000 copies, or 50 per cent of the total Sunday circulation.

Disapproves of Excise Tax.
Reed asked what he would think of a graduated excise tax on newspapers that would practically pro-

McCone said the New York Times and the Buffalo Commercial were the only newspapers in the eastern part of the United States that carried the story as sent by the Associated Press. The witness added that his paper, the Commercial, was operated on a "decidedly nonunion" basis.

McCone asserted that all members of the Typographical Union were forced to take an oath which he said was "decidedly un-American." He said the principal paragraph of this oath declared that members of the union should place "fidelity to my union and its members above any other obligation, social, political, religious, fraternal or otherwise."

ANTI-WILSON DEMOCRATS IN TEXAS ARE BARELY BEATEN

Element Indorsing President's Administration Gets 1210 of 1100 Votes in State Convention.

By the Associated Press.
DALLAS, Tex., May 3.—Meager additional returns from Saturday's Democratic precinct conventions held to elect delegates to the State administration tomorrow, which in turn will select delegates to the Texas Democratic convention on May 25, further emphasized the overwhelming victory of that element of the party favorable to the national administration. The unofficial returns, with 141 precincts missing, gave the forces indorsing President Wilson's administration 1210 of the 1400 votes in the State convention, while the figures for the anti-administration element headed by former U. S. Senator Joseph W. Bailey, remained at 49 State convention votes.

Tomorrow Democrats in the more than 250 Texas counties will meet in county conventions and select 1400 delegates to the State Convention, instructed in accordance with the will expressed by voters of the precincts in the precinct caucuses, to national administration and its policies.

In none of the available returns, however, was preference expressed for any candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

ENGINEER WITH WIFE HERE SOUGHT AFTER ELOPEMENT

Los Angeles Police Asked to Detain Father of Four Children Who Married Divorcee April 20.

SAID TO HAVE CALLED ON BRIDE TWO YEARS

Wife Declares That When He Was Getting $175 a Month She Understood Salary Was $90.

The story of the double life led by Harry Waldorf, 34 years old, 5407 14th avenue, former chief engineer at St. John's Hospital, was told today to the Circuit Attorney and to Federal prosecuting officials by his wife, Mrs. Ida Waldorf, who said he deserted her and their four children two weeks ago and eloped with and married Mrs. Laura Musick Wipfler, a divorcee with two children.

Mrs. Waldorf said that for nearly two years Waldorf spent many of his evenings away from home, telling her he was doing extra work at the hospital "fixing X-ray machines for the doctors," when in fact he was courting Mrs. Wipfler and taking her riding in his automobile.

In this period, she said, her husband used the assumed name "Byrne" when visiting Mrs. Wipfler at the home of her father, John U. Musick, a real estate dealer, 2609 Louisiana avenue.

Mrs. Wipfler, according to her parents, did not know Waldorf was married. Her children are at the Musick home. The St. Louis police have asked the Los Angeles police to arrest Waldorf. Prosecuting officials here have the complaint under advisement and have not decided whether to proceed against Waldorf on a bigamy charge or under the Mann act.

Married in Kansas City. Mrs. Wipfler's marriage with Waldorf is said to have taken place April 20, in Kansas City, where Waldorf was said to have given his name as Harry Byrne and his occupation as automobile salesman.

Mrs. Musick today said she had talked with Waldorf's legal wife and had seen his picture at his Idaho avenue home and there was no doubt he was the same man who, as Byrne, courted her daughter for two years, visiting the Musick home two or three nights a week.

Citizens who investigated the case said they had learned that Waldorf received a salary of $175 a month, but represented to his wife that his salary was $90 a month and that he spent most of the remainder in buying presents for Mrs. Wipfler, who thought he was unmarried.

The clew to the identity of Waldorf as Byrne was discovered by Edward Papin of 3432 Dunnin street, Mrs. Waldorf's brother, after the elopement, when a fireman at St. John's Hospital told him that Waldorf instructed him to call up "Miss Musick" at the Musick home if anything ever happened to him. Since her divorce Mrs. Wipfler has been known by her maiden name.

Bride "Can't Believe It."

Mrs. Musick today said that after having the revelations about Waldorf she talked to her daughter in Los Angeles by long-distance telephone last Saturday. She said when she told her daughter Waldorf was a married man, her daughter exclaimed: "I can't believe it."

Waldorf and Mrs. Wipfler left St. Louis at 2:30 a. m., April 20, a few days later Mrs. Musick received from her daughter by mail a copy of a Kansas City paper containing the publication of their marriage license.

Papin said he knew of Waldorf's intention to leave town the day before the elopement. Waldorf, he said, went to him and told him he was in "an awful jam" and would have to get out of St. Louis. When pressed for an explanation Waldorf said he was "mixed up in an oil deal" and the only way out was to leave town or jump in the river. Since the elopement, Papin said, he had been unable to learn that Waldorf was in any oil deal.

WOMAN LEAVES HUSBAND AT SHOW AND KILLS HERSELF

Mrs. Nellie Sashas Goes Home on Pretext on Having Headache—Suffered From Nervousness.

Mrs. Nellie Sashas, 25 years old, of 5477 Gilmore avenue, left her husband, William, seated in a picture show at Robin and Harney avenues yesterday evening under the pretext that she had a headache. She was going home for medicine. Instead she went home and shot herself through the head with a revolver.

When Sashas returned home at 5 p. m. the doors were locked and he had to break into the house. His wife's body was on the floor and this was on a dresser:

"Darling Will: I love you. I was so alone. Sashas told the police his wife had been under treatment recently for a nervousness but never had been treated to end her life. She was a sister of Mrs. Cora Edmann, wife of Dr. W. P. Edmann, 2160 Morris road.

TERMINAL SWITCHMEN GIVEN DAY TO RETURN

Bulletin Says Strikers After 3 P. M. Tomorrow Will Be Out of Service.

The Terminal Railroad Association today posted a notice to its striking switchmen, stating that those who do not return to work by 3 p. m. tomorrow will be considered out of the service, and that their seniority rights will be forfeited. Most of the railroads entering St. Louis took similar action several days ago. The strike began April 8.

Officers of the St. Louis Yardmen's Association, which is conducting the strike in defiance of the Railway Brotherhood of Railroaders, said today that no new developments had occurred in the strikers' position.

A new lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen was organized last night in a meeting at Engle Hall, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues, by members of the brotherhood who refused to join actively in the strike. The new lodge is named Loyalty Lodge, No. 952, and has a membership of 523. The members are employees of the Terminal Railroad Association and of several railroads, and were formerly members of lodges which lost their charters because most of their members joined in the unauthorized strike.

Switchmen Willing to Return With Old Rights, Says Grunau.

CHICAGO, May 3.—Nineteen thousand railway switchmen who walked out in the strike called here April 1 by the Chicago Yardmen's Association, are willing to return to work if their seniority rights are restored, John Grunau, president of the Chicago Yardmen's Association, said in Federal Court today.

Grunau and 41 other officers of the C. Y. A. and the United Engineers' Association were arraigned on charges of conspiracy to violate the Lever act and at Grunau's request the cases were continued until May 13.

"The men, I believe, are willing to go back to work pending a hearing on their grievances before the Wage Commission at Washington, providing they are given their old rights and positions," Grunau said.

Twenty of the 42 defendants in the conspiracy case have quit railroad work for other work.

52 Switchmen Suspended by Brotherhood at Springfield, Ill.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 3.—Fifty-two members of the local lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen were suspended today for six months following a trial by brotherhood officials for having gone on an unauthorized strike. The men suspended are switchmen.

MAN FALLS DEAD ON CAR

A man about 68 years old fell dead on an eastbound Tower Grove street car at Arkansas avenue and Arsenal street about 8:45 o'clock this morning. He was taken on the car to the city hospital, where physicians said that death apparently was due to apoplexy.

He had in his possession a brass check bearing the number 167 and a pair of eyeglasses in cases bearing the name of Frederick Garrett, 2748 Arsenal street, optician. He wore a brown suit, blue cap, black shoes and gray socks. He had blue eyes, gray hair and was slightly bald. The body was taken to the morgue.

"BLUEBEARD" ADMITS KILLING FIFTH WIFE

Unable to Remember Her Name—Woman He Married at Tacoma Missing.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 3.—In a second alleged confession, which officers were checking today, Walter Andrew Watson, alias James R. Hurt, admitted killing a woman he had married, but whose name he could not remember, according to Thomas Lee Woolwine, District Attorney, who said the "confession" was made to him yesterday.

This made five women the man was declared to have admitted slaying. The District Attorney said Watson told him he had married the woman in Tacoma, Wash., and that he choked her and pushed her overboard while they were boating on Lake Washington, near Seattle. He was quoted as saying he then rowed ashore, leaving the woman's body in the water.

"Naturally I told me one about it," the District Attorney quoted him.

Woolwine said his investigation showed that Watson, who is known as "the perfect wooer" because of his extraordinary capacity for winning the confidence of women, married Mrs. Beatrice Andrewartha, a Canadian, in Tacoma, Feb. 5, 1919, and that she was said to be missing. He said he had advised Washington authorities of Watson's statement.

Search for the body of Nina de Loney, one of the women whom Watson is alleged to have married and murdered, was temporarily abandoned after deputy sheriffs of Los Angeles and Imperial counties had dug for several hours in the desert, 30 miles west of El Centro, Cal. An investigation of the disappearance of Mrs. J. B. Rose of Los Molinos, Cal., is under way.

California Prisoner Believed to Have Married St. Louis Girl.

J. E. Freeman, 4023 Scanlon place, believes that W. A. Watson, who has confessed to the police of Los Angeles that he killed several bigamous wives, is the same man who, under the name of Lawrence Harris, married his daughter here about nine years ago and deserted her shortly afterward.

Freeman has identified a photograph of the prisoner as that of Harris, who operated a collection agency in St. Louis at the time of the marriage to Miss Freeman. The latter obtained a divorce from Harris and has since married again.

SHORTAGE OF GASOLINE BEFORE END OF SUMMER PREDICTED

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Warning of the probability of an actual shortage of gasoline before the end of the coming summer, as a result of the disproportionate increase in gasoline production and the number of automobiles in use, was given in a statement issued today by the Bureau of Mines.

While an increase in stocks at the end of February of more than 100,000,000 gallons, or 20 per cent, as compared with a year ago, shows that the situation is not yet acute, it is probable, the statement said, that before the "summer season" is over it will become tight, if indeed it does not become short.

With the number of automobiles and trucks now in use estimated to be 25 per cent greater than last year's gasoline production, it was said, increased only 11 per cent in February.

JEW SUBSCRIBE $125,000 TO FUND FOR RELIEF WORK

100 Attend Dinner at Columbian Club and Discuss Campaign Which Opens Today.

Subscriptions of $125,000 were made last night among 100 Jews gathered at dinner in the Columbian Club, Lindell boulevard, near Vandeventer avenue, to open the campaign in St. Louis for contributions to the relief of 6,000,000 Jews in Eastern Europe, who need food, clothing, medicine and tools.

The subscribers of large sums were: Aaron Waldheim, $10,000; Moses Shoenberg, $10,000; Mr. and Mrs. David May, $10,000; River Six Dry Goods Co. and Ernest Six, $6,000; David Sommers, $3,000; Hy Cohen, $3,000; Aaron Fuller, $3,000; Sigmond Raci, $3,000; Julius Leber, $2,000; Mrs. J. S. $2,000; Mark Harris, $2,000; Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Rubinstein, $2,000; Walter Zeinicker, $2,000; Sol Ross, $1,500; Samuels Sloe Co., $1,500; Rothschild Bros. Hat Co., $1,500.

Campaign Opens Today. The active campaign was begun today by 42 teams of Jewish men, 30 teams of Jewish women and 10 teams of non-Jewish men, led by B. F. Bush, most of the teams number 10 workers each. A team of non-Jewish women led by Mrs. Louis J. Broder, president of the Board of Religious Organizations, also will participate.

The workers will assemble each noon for luncheon in the Missouri Athletic Club to report their progress.

Rabbi Krass Makes Appeal.

The subscriptions last night followed an appeal of Dr. Nathan Krass, rabbi of Central Congregation, New York, who six months ago visited Austria, Jugoslavia, Poland, Rumania and Bessarabia. He declared that the Jews in Vienna were without food because the population was being fed on Government rations and the Jews, most of whom were refugees from Galicia, were no longer Austrian, but Poles, under the treaty of Paris. "They are being left to starve," he said.

A playlet, "The Call," written in verse by Miss Jessie Bogen, a relief worker in Poland, will be presented for the first time anywhere this afternoon in the auditorium of Scruge-Vandervoort & Barney by the alumni of the Jewish Educational Alliance, Ninth and Carr streets. It is an allegorical appeal for help for suffering Jews. Rabbi Leon Harris, of Temple Israel will speak.

Thomas Carnell, recently released from Federal prison, where he served a two-year term for violating the espionage act in counseling opposition to the draft, was one of the two inspirational speakers. Carnell, who at his trial denied having made the utterances which resulted in his conviction, said in his speech that he is ready to go to prison again for Socialist principles.

Carnell and William M. Brandt, both applauded the Russian Socialists for the successes they declared they have made and advised their hearers to emulate the Russians and rise against industrial and political oppression.

Brandt derided Attorney General Palmer for his "May-day" speech and said his utterances have shown that "if he must run for office he should be a candidate for the bucket rather than for the presidency."

Rimand, 1815 Lynch street, by members of the police gambling squad who raided the place this afternoon.

Rimand and George B. Ahrens, 29, 2439A Iowa avenue, were arrested. The latter had a book of tickets issued by a suit club which entitled holders to a chance of winning a suit of clothes.

MOVIE OPERATORS' WAGES BASED ON ADMISSION PRICES

Theaters Charging Up to 20 Cents to Pay $32—Scale Runs Up to $65.25.

A new wage scale for moving-picture machine operators, based on the price of admission charged at the various theaters, became effective Saturday. It provides a minimum of $32 a week in neighborhood theaters charging from 5 cents to 20 cents admission and a maximum of $65.25 a week in theaters charging an admission price of $1 or more. The new scale represents increases of from $7.50 to $12 a week.

The minimum of $32 will be for a week of seven nights of not more than four hours each. Operators employed in theaters charging from 21 cents to 35 cents admission will receive $35 a week, with $5 extra for each matinee, and those employed in theaters charging from 36 cents to 49 cents admission will receive $38.50 a week, with $5.50 extra for each matinee. Wages ranging from $42 to $56 a week, with extra pay for matinees and supper hour work are provided for in that part of the schedule applying to theaters charging from 50 cents to $1 and more.

As the maximum admission price now charged by moving-picture theaters here is 44 cents, the highest wage received by the operators under the new schedule will be $49.25 a week. The higher scale was included to cover a possible increase in admission price before the expiration of the contract, which runs for one year.

NEGRO CHURCH FIRST TO GO OVER QUOTA IN CAMPAIGN

Solicitation for $400,000 "Friendly Citizens" Fund to Continue Here This Week.

Solicitation will continue here this week for the $400,000 "friendly citizens' fund of the World Church Movement, the solicitors have mostly church members, but the range of the canvass being general.

The canvass throughout the United States has been extended to next Sunday. The first denomination shown to have exceeded its quota is the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, which has reported subscriptions of $300,000, or $88,000 over its allotted amount. The largest State return thus far is $12,121,000, from Pennsylvania, and the next is $5,829,000, from New York. The Missouri report thus far is $1,500,000, and that for Illinois $2,417,000. All figures are incomplete at present.

RUSSIAN DELEGATES TO GO HOME

By the Associated Press. LONDON, May 3.—Russia's trade delegation at Copenhagen has decided to return to Russia owing to the reported refusal of Great Britain to accept Maxim Litvinoff to England and because no answer was received to its appeal to the San Remo conference that the trade negotiations be transferred to some other country.

LIVING COST INCREASE GREATEST IN DETROIT

City Leads 13 Others With 107.87 Per Cent Advance Since 1914, Norfolk Second.

By the Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, May 3.—The Bureau of Labor Statistics issued today a statement showing the increase in the cost of living from December, 1914, to December, 1919, in 14 industrial centers on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts and the Great Lakes.

The greatest increase, 107.87 per cent, was in Detroit. Figures for the other cities in the group are as follows: Portland, Me., 91.55 per cent; Boston, 92.3; New York, 103.81; Philadelphia, 98.49; Baltimore, 98.43; Norfolk, 102.14; Savannah, 95.67; Jacksonville, 102.14; Mobile, 94.54; Houston, 101.7; Chicago, 100.61; Cleveland, 95.05; Buffalo, 102.65.

The report is based on a study of representative yard budgets in the leading shipbuilding centers of the United States. Expenditures for food, clothing, housing, fuel and light, furniture and furnishings, and miscellaneous purposes were taken into account. Clothing generally showed the greatest increase.

The figures for Chicago are fairly typical. In that city it was estimated that the cost of food absorbed 27.3 per cent of the total family expenditures; clothing, 15 per cent; housing, 14.9; fuel and light, 6; furniture and furnishings, 4.4; miscellaneous, 20.6. The cost of food in Chicago went up 93.65 per cent; clothing for males, 211.78; clothing for females, 232.86; all clothing, 233.99; housing, 14.02; fuel and light, 40.10; furniture and furnishings, 175.99; miscellaneous, 84.28.

St. Louis will be included in a later report.

94 TONS OF PAPER COLLECTED

Newspapers Make Up 80 Tons. Gathered by School Children. Ninety-four tons of waste paper were collected by the pupils in the public schools here last month. Of this, 80 tons consisted of old newspapers and 14 tons of old magazines.

Nearly 10,000 has been realized through sales of paper since the schools opened last September.

The idea of school pupils collecting waste paper originated with Stephen W. Wagner, a member of the School Board, in 1916 and since that time something like $40,000 has been realized. The paper is brought to schools by the children and deposited there where the doors in waste paper bid for it. The revenue from the sales accrues to the benefit of the Teachers' Benevolent Association, an organization of teachers which pays annuities to those who retire after long service. Moving pictures of a "waste-paper" drill of the children at the Bryan Murphy School, 4221 Shaw avenue, will be taken at 9 a. m. Tuesday. Approximately 1200 pupils will participate.

Traffic Policeman Hit by Auto.

Traffic Policeman John A. McNamara, 28 years old, 3817 North Twentieth street, while directing traffic at Jefferson avenue and Locust street at 11 a. m. today, was knocked down by an automobile driven by Arthur H. Schweer, 26, of 4123 W. Lexington avenue, a salesman. He was cut on the right arm and leg. Schweer said that he misunderstood the policeman's signal.

WIFE OF BRITISH CONSUL GETS DIVORCE

Mrs. Maybelle Small Alleges Husband Showed "Studied Indifference."

Mrs. Maybelle Small obtained a divorce at Clayton today from William K. Small, British consul at St. Louis, who is a patent lawyer with offices in the Federal Reserve Bank Building. Their home was at 125 South Elm avenue, Webster Groves.

Mrs. Small charged in her petition that Small showed a "studied indifference toward her, showed a lack of interest in her welfare, and failed to speak to her for long intervals."

She testified that one time, when another British consul, who of identity she did not reveal, was visiting here, Small arranged a theater party for him. On the night of the affair, she said, her husband became angry, insisted on playing with their son, William, four years old, and refused to dress, so she had to go to the Buckingham Hotel for the visitor and take him to the theater, she said. Afterward the visitor escorted her home, and being unfamiliar with the locality, lost his way and was unable to find his way back to the hotel until along in the early hours of the morning.

Custody of the child was awarded to her, with $25 a month alimony, and $25 a month maintenance for the child. Small is to have the privilege of visiting it.

Small, though not contesting, entered his appearance through his attorney, who asked no questions of Mrs. Small. They were married Nov. 2, 1908, and separated Nov. 8 last.

WASHING MACHINES TAKEN APART IN HUNT FOR RINGS

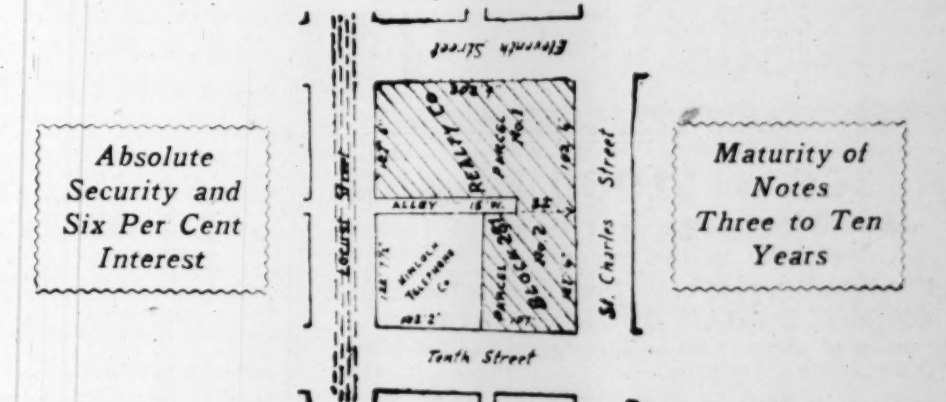

Mrs. Fred Cornwell, 5032 Waterman avenue, wife of an attorney last night asked the police to search for two diamond rings valued at $1650 which she now believes were stolen from her home about Dec. 30 last.

She explained the delay in reporting the theft by stating that the rings had been in the pocket of a skirt which she sent to a cleaning establishment and when she missed them she asked the cleaners to make a search. They did this, she reported, even taking apart the washing machines used in cleaning the skirt. They had been unable to find any trace of the jewels. One of the rings was set with 24 diamonds.

MAN UNDER SENTENCE AGAIN HELD IN ROBBERY

"Bergadine" Miller With Three Others Caught Looting Freight Car at Moselle, Mo.

Ernest Miller, known as "Bergadine," who is shown by the St. Louis police records to have been arrested 36 times here in the last five years, and who is under sentence to two years' imprisonment in the Federal penitentiary, for stealing merchandise from interstate shipments, was one of four men who were arrested early yesterday near Moselle, Franklin county, 45 miles from St. Louis. The men are charged with robbing a freight car on a Frisco railroad side-track of $1800 worth of merchandise, which was found in an automobile said by the police to belong to Miller.

Another of the men captured, after a chase over country roads by local constables and railroad special agents, was Raymond Renard, who is now under bond on three criminal charges, one of them being that he held up the girl cashier of the Maull Brothers Macaroni Co. on the street, and robbed her of $500. The other charges pending against Renard are freight car robbery.

The others arrested were Thomas Brindley of 3112 North Twentieth street, who was arrested last October while hauling a stolen safe through an alley, was permitted to plead guilty to petty larceny, and was paroled by Judge Garosche after serving two months in the workhouse; and William Reinhardt of 2239 Benton street, who is charged with having been an accomplice with Renard in the macaroni payroll robbery. All were brought to St. Louis and held at police headquarters for the Federal authorities.

W. S. Fisher, Constable for Central Township, Franklin County, came upon a group of men robbing a freight car on the Moselle side-track at 12:30 Sunday morning. The men escaped in their automobile, but ran into a stump by the roadside, and Reinhardt was caught while sitting in the machine, the other three having run through the woods. The constable telephoned to nearby towns, and the three men were caught by railroad special agents when they appeared near St. Clair, a few miles distant, and asked the way to the railroad.

T. M. Pierce, injured by horse, Thomas N. Pierce, vice president and general counsel for the Terminal Railroad Association, suffered a fractured collarbone yesterday afternoon when his horse fell with him on the Ladue road, about a mile west of the Country Club.

TWELFTH ENGINEERS' DINNER-DANCE MAY 12

Anniversary of Organization's Return to Be Celebrated at Kirkwood Country Club.

THE relatives and friends of the Twelfth Engineers have planned to celebrate the anniversary of their return to St. Louis with a dinner-dance at the Kirkwood Country Club Wednesday, May 12, at 7 o'clock. The women have been invited for the afternoon also.

The committee in charge of arrangements includes Mrs. E. W. Dolch, chairman; Mmes. Frank G. Jones, Lewis W. Lacy, Baxter Brown, Theodore P. Brookes, John A. Laird, and Messrs. Jack Wessling, Charles Lieber, Louis A. Griesedick and Sidney Skinner.

Jacob von Maur will act as toastmaster. Responses will be made by Mrs. Lewis W. Lacy, representing the Woman's Auxiliary of the Twelfth Engineers, and J. J. Mulholland, representing Aubuchon-Dennison Post of the American Legion, which was organized by the members of the Twelfth Engineers. Reservations may be made through Mr. E. W. Dolch, 403 Pierce Building, not later than May 8.

The Reception Committee for the afternoon comprises Mmes. John A. Laird, Frank G. Jones, Theodore P. Brookes, H. J. Fruch, E. L. Mott, Emma Miller, J. S. Moyer, E. T. Owen, Baxter Brown, William Green, Nelson Cunliff, Lewis Lacy, Henry Brookes, W. Wilson Burden and Hugo Friellingsdorf. The patrons and patronesses for this celebration are Messrs. and Mmes. John A. Laird, Willard Willing, Frank G. Jones, F. W. Green, W. W. Wilson Burden, J. W. Skelly, Theodore P.

HER ENGAGEMENT WAS ANNOUNCED RECENTLY

Miss Hazel Rainey.

Social Items

Mrs. Julius Birge of 5076 Westminster place entertained with an informal tea this afternoon in compliment to her daughter, Mrs. Courtland F. Carrier of New Jersey and Mrs. Arthur Birge, who has recently returned here from Cleveland, O.

Mrs. Arthur Bonasack and Miss Georgia Riddle, Mrs. Carrier will depart Wednesday for her home.

Mrs. A. C. Leggat of 6138 Pershing avenue and her daughter, Miss Ruth Leggat, entertained with a luncheon Wednesday in honor of Miss Theresa Kaster, whose wedding to Harry Zelle will take place early in June.

Miss Vesta Reed, daughter of Mrs. Allen V. Cockrell of North Newstead avenue, was hostess this afternoon at a luncheon for eight girls in compliment to Miss Pauline Flint, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. George Lighton Bridge of 6465 Elwood avenue.

Dr. Neil Moore and his bride have returned from their wedding trip and are at home at 5522 Waterman avenue.

The Executive Board of the Sorority Circle will meet Thursday at the home of Mrs. Grimmer, 5477 Enright avenue. At the annual meeting, which will be held at the Cabanne Branch Library at 10 o'clock, May 12, the election of officers will take place.

Mrs. R. C. Fischer of 5212 Cabanne avenue, Miss Loreto Pittman and Miss Helen Fischer entertained last Thursday at Mrs. Fischer's home with a miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Mariella Behrens, whose engagement to Arthur Huber has been announced. Those present were: Misses Edna Monihan, Roberta Vogt, Otilie Zurheide, Florence Schlueter, Esther Muenstermann, Esther Welker, Lillian Twelkemeier, Anita Horstmann, Mrs. E. Behrens, Mrs. J. Schlueter, Miss A. Grote, Messrs. A. W. Huber, E. Konering and E. A. Fischer.

Among the recent engagements announced is that of Miss Hazel Rainey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Rainey of 5755 Westminster place, to Everett B. Willoughby of 4225 Washington boulevard. The wedding will take place in the autumn.

Sunset Hill Country Club will have its opening dinner-dance on Wednesday evening. The affair will be informal.

PIASA CHAUTAUQUA TO BE WITHOUT EARLY MORNING TRAIN

Piasa Chautauqua will be without an early morning train for St. Louis commuters and week-enders this season for the first time in its existence. The morning train will depart at 7:08 instead of 6:13. It will reach St. Louis at 9 instead of 8.

The early train has always been one of the emphasized advantages of the resort, enabling St. Louisans to install their families in cottages there for the summer and spend the nights and week-ends there themselves. The change of time will preclude this for all whose office hours begin before 9 a. m.

The change was proposed last season, but when attention was called to the fact that it would exclude some from spending the summer there it was not pressed. The members of the Board of Directors prefer a late train, however, and it became known today that the change was sanctioned at the meeting last week, at which the advocates of the early train were not heard.

"DON'T EVER MARRY" IS LIVELY COMEDY

Film Version of "Shore Acres" and Fox Stars in Double Bill Are Other Features.

A brisk and swiftly moving comedy is "Don't Ever Marry," a Marshall Neilan production, which opened for the week at the New Grand Central and West End Lyric yesterday. One more Moore steps into the studio light here and gives an excellent interpretation of the leading character. He is Matt, brother of Tom and Owen, and he has the role of Joe Benson, an electrician in love, who gets his wires crossed in most amusing fashion. He marries one girl, but his marriage to another is announced and a third, who has heard neither announcement, goes to him for advice and protection at a most important time, the result being that the three women meet in a hotel bridal suite which he has engaged.

The complications are laughable and inoffensive and the cast is unusually strong, including Marjorie Daw, Adele Farrington, Tom Guise, Betty Bouton, Christine Mayo, Herbert Standing, Tom Wilson and that wonderful freckled boy actor, Wesley Barry. Several interesting short features also are on the bill.

James A. Herne's melodramatic stage classic, "Shore Acres," in picture form, is the leading attraction at the Kings Theater. Alice Lake is the star. The play is screened with a wealth of scenic detail that was impossible to the stage in the good old days of muslin oceans and canvas skies. The homely story of the hard-fisted father who tries to force his daughter into a loveless marriage with a rich man and his diabolical wrecking of the ship on which she sails with her true love is told with considerable spirit. The bill also includes a comedy and a news weekly.

There is a good double bill at the Liberty, the feature attractions being Gladys Brockwell in "The Mother of His Children" and William Russell in "Leave It to Me."

Dr. H. S. Bliss, President of College in Syria, Dies

Educator's Breakdown Attributed to Exertions in Behalf of Self-Determination for Syria.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Dr. Howard Sweetser Bliss, president of the Syrian Protestant College of Beirut, Syria, died yesterday at Saranac, N. Y., according to a message received here. He had been in failing health for several months and was taken to Saranac by friends a week ago in the hope that the climate there might be helpful. He was 60 years old.

Many of Dr. Bliss' friends in this city attributed his breakdown in health to his exertions before the peace conference in Paris last year in the interest of the policy of self-determination for Syria.

Dr. Bliss was born in Suk-Eil-Ghurb, a village of Mount Lebanon. He was graduated from Amherst College in 1882 and for the next two years was a member of the faculty of Washburn College, Topeka, Kan.

After several years in the ministry, he succeeded his father as head of the Syrian College, which developed rapidly under his pupils drawn from all parts of the Near East.

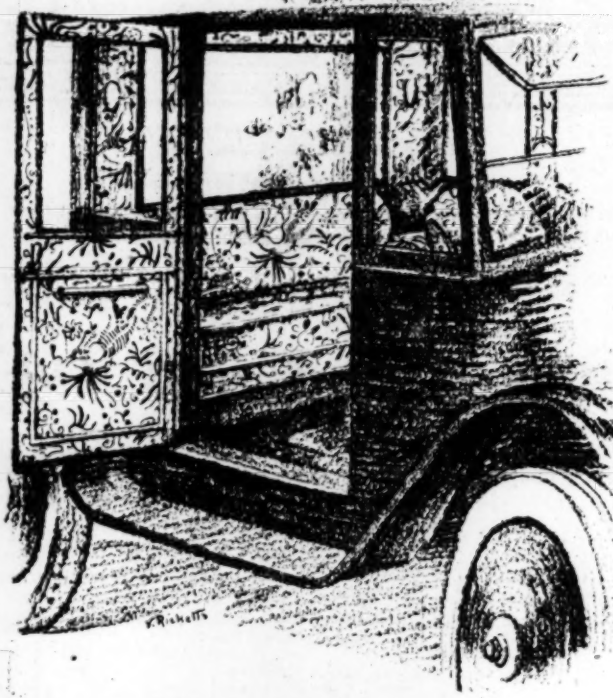

FUNERAL SERVICES TOMORROW FOR HAMILTON A. FORMAN
Former President of City Council Died Saturday at Missouri Baptist Sanitarium.

Funeral services for Hamilton A. Forman, former president of the City Council and retired banker, who died Saturday night at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from 3621 Olive street, to Bellefontaine Cemetery.

He was president of the Fourth National Bank when it was absorbed by the National Bank of Commerce, after which he was one of the organizers, and first president, of the Central National Bank. Before entering the business here he was connected with banks at Duquoin, Ill., and in Cincinnati and had been a national bank examiner.

His death resulted from a complication of diseases with which he was stricken a week ago, after returning from a trip to Florida with his wife and daughter. He was a brother of C. M. Forman of this city and of William S. Forman, former Congressman from Illinois.

212.2 PER CENT INCREASE IN LONG BEACH (CAL.) POPULATION
Billings, Mont., Gains 50.5 Per Cent; Frankfort, Ind., 34.2; Durban, N. C., 19.1.

Slip-Covers

Being annoyed by temperature is largely psychological, and those are wise who surround themselves with things that look cool during the warm months.

Cool-looking slip-covers for the seats of the motor car not only protect light frocks; they are a positive and delightful relief from dark, hot leather or the stuffy-feeling upholstery woollens that are delicious in winter.

Then there is the living-room furniture to be covered with well-fitting slips of nice, cooling fabrics—not shrouded and left in a darkened room—so giving all-year usefulness.

Fine striped Belgian Linen (of which we have recently imported a tremendous quantity), mohair, etc., are practical, serviceable materials, and we use a great deal of them, but the lovely summery cottons and hand-blocked linens are extremely smart and quite as serviceable if you want to avoid the safe neutrality of the more generally used fabrics.

We make these slip-covers perfectly, with fit and cut exactly as they should be, but suggest as early ordering as you find convenient, as our output is limited by the scarcity of the sort of labor we insist upon in our workrooms.

C. T. L. U. EFFECTS ORGANIZATION FOR CHAIN OF STORES

Officers and General Committee Named to Arrange to Sell Stock in Co-operative Groceries.

An organization to perfect preliminary plans for a labor union co-operative society to operate a chain of groceries in St. Louis, financed and controlled by trades unionists, for the purpose of reducing the cost of living, was formed yesterday afternoon at the headquarters of the Central Trades and Labor Union, 2228 Olive street.

Joseph E. Kinney of the Waiters' Union was elected president. E. W. Altheide of the Cigar Makers' Union, secretary-treasurer, and the following were named as a committee to draft a constitution and arrange details for disposition of capital stock: L. H. Prosser, S. E. Snyder, Thomas Woracek, Mary Noonan, T. J. Burke, E. G. Clay and Peter Beisel.

About 50 of the 225 local unions represented in the Central Trades and Labor Union have signed their intention of purchasing stock in the enterprise, and sums ranging from $200 to $2500 already have been voted by some unions. A delegate from the Butchers' Union announced that his local had voted to subscribe $2500 in the St. Louis enterprise and $2500 in a similar enterprise in East St. Louis. The Carpenters' Union has voted to invest $500 in the St. Louis organization.

No Profits From Sale of Goods. Following the policy adopted by trades unions in other cities the St. Louis labor co-operative stores probably will be conducted on the American plan, which provides that no profits realized from the sale of goods. The sole benefit is to be derived from the privilege of purchasing commodities at slightly above cost. The European plan provides for the sale of goods at regular market prices and dividing profits among the stockholders.

Here's the Answer!

Some doubt has been expressed as to the economical spending of municipal bond funds by city officials. This seems to be the chief objection to the bond issue expressed by some voters. The answer is contained in the following official documents:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, Saint Louis

Mr. Thomas Lovelace,
Chairman Citizens' Municipal Bond Committee,
Hotel Statler, St. Louis, Mo.

My Dear Mr. Lovelace,—

We, the undersigned, members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of St. Louis, hereby certify that at a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, held on January 16, 1920, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"RESOLVED, That an advisory committee of five members, representing various civic and business organizations, be appointed by the Mayor to supervise the expenditure of all bond issue money, and that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment be governed by their recommendations."

We wish to further certify that at a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, held on January 30, 1920, by unanimous consent the board increased the membership to seven instead of five, as set forth in the above resolution.

HENRY W. KIEL, Mayor.
LOUIS NOLTE, Comptroller.
LOUIS F. ALOE, President Board Aldermen.

Board of Estimate and Apportionment:

April Twenty-Sixth, 1920.

St. Louis, Mo., April 27th, 1920.

Mr. Thomas H. Lovelace, Chairman Citizens' Municipal Bond Committee, Room 110, Hotel Statler, St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Sir,—

It has come to our attention that certain statements have been made throughout the city that the Citizens' Supervisory Committee has no official standing, and that its members will give no time to the matter of supervising the expenditure of bond money.

May we take this opportunity of assuring the public that the Citizens' Supervisory Committee recognizes the responsibility placed upon it through the action of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the various organizations which we represent, and we assure everyone interested that the members of this committee will be on the job all the time.

We expect to pass upon all ordinances that are to be submitted for the expenditure of these funds, also pass on all bids submitted for the work, and watch the expenditure of the money after the contracts are let and see that the city gets full service and returns on the investment.

We realize that this means four or five years of service, but we are willing to give our time gratis to help the progress of our city. We are serving without pay, but are willing to do this for the future welfare of this community. The Mayor and city officials have given us assurance that none of this work will be done unless approved by our committee, and we will approve at this time what is absolutely needed or considered an emergency.

Very truly yours,

E. C. ANDREWS, Merchants' Exchange.
BAXTER L. BROWN, Chamber of Commerce.
CHARLES J. LAMMERT, Building Trades Council.
JOHN B. EDWARDS, St. Louis Bar Association.

RICHARD MOORE, Manufacturers' Association.
J. H. FARISH, Real Estate Exchange.
DAVID KREYLING, Trades and Labor Union.

This binds the present administration UNDER A WRITTEN PLEDGE. The bond funds will not all be spent during the term of the present city administration. This expenditure will extend over a period of years. Future administrations may be similarly BOUND by requiring all candidates, before election, to make a like promise IN WRITING and causing the political parties to put such a pledge in their platforms. The public has adequate power to defeat candidates failing to make such pledge. It also has the power of RECALL against recreant officials.

Election May 11th. Vote YES by scratching NO.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, May 3.—Allan Sothoron and Claude Williams were the opposing hurlers in the third game of the series today. A crowd of 2500 was on hand.

FIRST INNING.

CHICAGO—Leibold grounded to Sothoron. Sothoron tossed out Weaver. Collins tapped to Sothoron. NO RUNS.

BROWNS—Weaver made a sensational stop of Austin's grounder and threw him out. Gedeon raised to Felsch. Tobin grounded to Collins. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

CHICAGO—Sisk made a great stop of Jackson's grounder, and threw to Sothoron who covered first. Felsch drove deep to Tobin. Jourdan singled to right. Rieberger singled through Gerber. Jourdan stopping at second. Schalk fouled to Sisk. NO RUNS.

BROWNS—Sisk singled to center. Williams sacrificed. Jourdan to Collins on first. Hieberger threw out Jacobson. Sisk going to third. Severold out. Collins to Jourdan. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

CHICAGO—Williams fanned. Leibold raised to Jacobson. Weaver out. Austin to Sisk. NO RUNS.

BROWNS—Gerber lifted to Felsch. Sothoron fouled to Schalk. Austin hoisted to Felsch. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

CHICAGO—Collins tapped to Sothoron. Jackson out. Gerber to Sisk. Felsch singled over second. Felsch out stealing. Severold to Gedeon. NO RUNS.

BROWNS—Gedeon raised to Leibold. Tobin tripled to center. A wild pitch scored Tobin. Sisk fanned. Williams raised to Jackson. ONE RUN.

FIFTH INNING.

CHICAGO—Jourdan out. Gedeon to Sisk. Rieberger singled to center. Schalk singled to right. Rieberger taking third. Williams batted safely down the first line base line. Rieberger scoring. Leibold popped to Gedeon. Severold's throw to Gerber had Schalk picked off second. But when Gerber threw to the stands to get Schalk at third, Schalk scored, and Williams reached second. Weaver singled to right. Collins stopping at third. Collins lifted to Williams. TWO RUNS.

BROWNS—Leibold went to center field for Jacobson's liner. Weaver threw out Severold. Gerber lifted to Jackson. NO RUNS.

CARPENTIER MAKES HIS AMERICAN RING DEBUT IN 2-ROUND EXHIBITION

NEW YORK, May 3.—Georges Carpentier appeared for the first time in ring costume in this city when he boxed two rounds with Jules Lenares, his training partner, at the New Club show in the Seventy-first Street Armory last night. The great French boxer lived up to all the things that have been said of his brilliant work with the gloves. Carpentier is amazing when he strips for action. In his street clothes he does not impress one as being powerful, but in war paint he is all speed, punch and rare ability. Admiral J. H. Glennon, commandant of the Third Naval District, flanked by a big gathering of sailors, saw the European wonder in action. When time was finally called 20 or 30 gobs made a rush for the platform, and, lifting Carpentier in the air, carried him around. Carpentier grinned and waved both gloved hands in return for the unexpected demonstration on the part of the gobs.

Industrial A. A. Announces Plans

Track Meet and Baseball Series for U. S. Titles Already on the Program.

PITTSBURG, May 3.—National executives of the American Industrial Athletic Association met at Carnegie Institute here today and formulated plans whereby an applied program of sports, as applied to the needs of industrial workers, will be carried into every section of the country.

It was announced at the session that a national industrial track meet will be held here July 4, and officials of the association from the Middle West, New York State, New England and the Atlantic States said that teams from the various sections would be sent to take part.

It was decided to conduct a national industrial baseball elimination series this season. Teams of the West will commence the series and gradually work toward the East, the final to be staged somewhere in New England.

Wallace Out in Front.

Bobby Wallace with a record of 5-1 is still leading in the handicap walking tourney at Peterson's.

Klein is second with 4-1. Other standings follow: Willis 3-2, Gibbons 2-3, Howard 2-3, Wheeler 2-4, Rayner 2-4, Kalkreuth 2-4, Gibbons and Willis are scheduled to play tomorrow.

Janvrin's Muff in Ninth Paves Way For Cards' Defeat

With Two Down and a Man on Third, Harold Misses Pop Fly — Cubs Win in Tenth, 5-4.

CHICAGO, May 3.—An error by Harold Janvrin on what should have been the third out in the ninth inning of the Cardinals' final game with the Cubs here yesterday afternoon, enabled the Bruins to tie the score in that frame and win out in the tenth, 5 to 4. The contest was played in a chilly wind and because of the weather, "breaks" rather than baseball prowess, decided the contest.

Each team managed to put over a run in the first inning,

AFRICAN METHODIST CONFERENCE OPENS

Negro Bishops Lead Procession From Church to Coliseum.

The quadrennial general conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Church opened this morning in the Coliseum, following the procession from St. Paul's Church, Lawrence and Leffingwell avenues. The line of march was headed by the Bishops of the church in their ecclesiastical robes.

The conference is scheduled to continue through May 19. The principal event of the opening day was the quadrennial episcopal address, delivered by Bishop J. F. Flipper of Atlanta. Two of the topics of his discourse were mob violence and disfranchisement. He declared that the A. M. E. Church stands against all forms of mob violence to persons of any race, and for the prosecution of all criminals according to the law.

Refers to Disfranchisement. "Disfranchisement," he said, "is due to the baneful doctrine of States rights and the indifference of the national Government to enforce the amendments to the constitution of the United States thereby making a part of its citizens subservient to the whims of a few."

He declared that no citizen could protect his life and property without the effective franchise. He said that the Government could never be a part of its citizens disfranchised. The remedy, he said, is to be found in education. If every negro boy in school from the age of 6 to the age of 21, he said, every disfranchisement law would be broken from the statute books.

Other sections of his address were an endorsement of prohibition, a declaration of approval of the union of the A. M. E. A. M. of Zion and Colored M. E. churches, and a discussion of the cases of mental, financial and physical delinquency and abusive liquor in the ranks of the ministry.

Morning and Evening Meetings. At this morning's service, Bishop J. Albert Johnson of Baltimore presided, and other Bishops took part in the communion service. At tonight's meeting in the Coliseum, Bishop H. B. Parks of Chicago was scheduled to preside, and the names of Gov. Gardner and Mayor Alden appear on the program to be delivered after welcome. Bishop J. H. Jones will make the chief response. A reception to the delegates by the local churches, will follow.

Morning, afternoon and night sessions of the conference are scheduled for every weekday. Friday night the oratorio "Mary Magdalene," by Massenet, will be sung by soloists and a chorus. An admission charge will be made at that time, but for tonight's service no charge will be made.

1000 Children in Song Festival. "Children's Week" in St. Louis closed yesterday with a festival of song participated in by about 1000 children, who are members of Sunday schools of the city, in the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington avenues. George Platt Knox, former Assistant Superintendent of Schools, presided. The service was devoted to the singing of hymns, among them a group of spring songs, and the telling of children's stories on Biblical subjects.

HARRY B. HAWES NOT TO BE CANDIDATE FOR SENATE

Says Frank Discussion of States' Rights Between Now and Aug. 1 Would Be Impossible.

Harry B. Hawes today gave out a written statement that he will not be a candidate at the August primaries for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator.

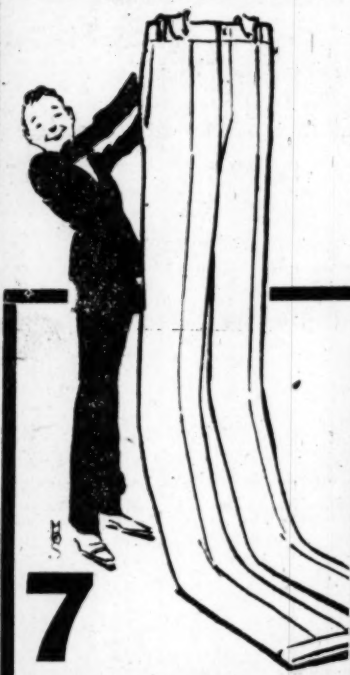

In his statement he says that between now and Aug. 1, the date for the primary, "the forces of bigotry, joining with the forces of an intolerant idealism, will be sufficiently strong to prevent a frank discussion of domestic problems and the overshadowing fundamental issue of self-government and states' rights."

As to the league of nations, Hawes repeats his opinion, expressed in public several times, that both President Wilson and Senator Reed are wrong.

With reference to the prohibition question he says "candidates for office have so far, with few exceptions, dodged, 'pussy-footed' and straddled the issue of the Volstead law, trying to divert attention from its inequities by a discussion of the saloon."

Hawes in conclusion says he realizes that it is not advisable for him, within the limited time, to present the questions of states' rights, local self-government and domestic problems.

Man, Wife, 2 Children Found Dead. By the Associated Press. ROUNDUP, Mont., May 3.—The bodies of Joe West, a ranch worker, his wife and two children, aged 8 and 9, were found in their home today. Authorities believe West killed himself and wife and children.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Oil Resources of the Future.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Numerous recent London dispatches announce flamboyantly that Great Britain has run a copper riveted corner on the world's crude oil supply and the case they make out might look cloudy to one not posted on the situation.

But what are the facts? In the first place, the well oil supply of the world is fast falling. The stupendous increase of oil and gas-burning engines and the lack of new oil field discoveries has brought the manufacturing world face to face with a threatened oil famine.

The prediction of the world by July 1 has awakened the world to the actual situation. Britain hastily puts Government money in oil properties, even financing and consolidating the shale and canal coal industries which have been producing oil.

But when Brother John imagines that Uncle Sam has been idly dreaming, he himself is asleep. For the oil men, engineers and industrial forces of the United States have for three years been hard at work arranging to save the very situation they have long seen coming on the failure of well oil to supply the demand.

In Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and other Northwest states, a vast amount of shale oil is being produced. The shale oil is a barrel of oil shale which will average a barrel of oil shale to the ton. Scattered over nearly every other state in the Union are beds of oil-bearing shale and canal coal that runs as high as 60 gallons to the ton. Right here in Missouri and in our neighbor states of Arkansas, Illinois and Iowa are immense beds of shale and canal coal which only wait the touch of the distiller to yield up millions of barrels of this stuff.

All the oil the world has ever produced is only as a drop in the bucket to the oil in the bituminous rocks of this wonderful country packed away there, seemingly at work arranging to save the very situation they have long seen coming on the failure of well oil to supply the demand.

Sympathy Is Sweet But Not Filling.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have read numerous articles about the bonus and would like some of the knackers to tell me if it is out of proportion to pay men, who went through hell for our United States of America, $2 a day, when the lowest paid mechanic and contractors on Government jobs would consider $10 an insult during the period of camp and ship construction.

It is square for the few millions of returned soldiers to spend the next few years catching up with inflated prices raised by knackers who were busy profiting and prohibiting while we were doing our best to keep the good name of the United States clean and respected? Is the slogan to be "Millions for the bonus, millions for our allies, sympathy for our soldiers?" AN EX-MARINE.

When Lawful Means Fail.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Referring to a news item in which Judge Landis of Chicago is commenting upon the low pay of a postal clerk who stole a diamond: I am a railroad clerk, have three children and receive for my work the munificent remuneration of $87.50 per month. You have time and again condemned the strike weapon as the means of procuring higher pay and pointed out the right and lawful course to follow in order to get a living wage; and yet you know in your heart that there is no conceivable way under the present system of government in which to actually ameliorate our condition unless we strike. All the talk about lawful means is bunk and gets us nowhere, as the last 10 months have proven. While we wait our children have to leave school in order to help the parents to earn enough money to bring up the smaller ones.

How can you expect a father to instill into his children a respect for order and government when the very administration of that Government is the cause of unheard-of conditions in the homes of the poor, for such is the home of a Government employee at $87.50 per month.

Des Peres River As a Canal.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In relation to our bond issue and meaning of same with reference to River des Peres, it seems to me we are not getting the full benefit of the money to be spent on this undertaking. My idea is to excavate the Des Peres bed as deep as low water of the Mississippi River and at least 100 feet wide at the bottom. To Forest Park. Great stress is put on the transportation opened by the Belt Line to be constructed, but why not utilize this canal as a water connection to float barges and boats upon? Slips along the canal should be built so the large manufacturing in this valley can have coal, iron, stone, etc., by barge load at their door and load their product for shipment. We are the only large city that has no canal system to reach some away from the immediate river front.

TRUTHS ABOUT THE PEACE BILL.

Wholly apart from his partisanship, Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the National Democratic Committee, in his statement denouncing the Knox peace bill, gave utterance to a sound body of truth.

In the name of peace the bill does propose dishonor. It does seek a discreditable, separate peace with Germany, without regard to our obligations to our war associates with whom we fought on pledges to accomplish certain great ends, which are abandoned in the bill. It does end the war, fought to establish our rights, without protecting them or gaining any assurance that they will be respected, thus sacrificing the fruits of the war. It does seek to utilize the provisions of the Versailles treaty without assuming its obligations or participating in the work of enforcing its provisions, thus placing the United States in the position of a slacker.

More than this, the bill abandons all effort to establish peace guarantees on a basis of justice and liberty. This is the great aim we set up as the objective of the war. It was the war object which gained for us and the allies the support of world public opinion—all the moral forces that fight invincibly for right. Having profited by these moral forces which greatly helped to break down the fighting morale of the enemy, the peace bill proposes to abandon the objective, to abandon the effort to establish justice and freedom and to guarantee peace.

It does not follow, however, that the ratification of the peace treaty, with participation in the League of Nations, must be accomplished without regard to differences of opinion on some points in the peace covenant. It is not necessary, in order to ratify the treaty and support the peace covenant, that the opinion of the majority of the Senate, whose advice and consent are provided for in the Constitution, shall be overridden. Unfortunately, the majority of the Senate, including both Republicans and Democrats, does not agree in opinion on certain details with the President. There is necessity for compromise which will attain the main object of the treaty by sacrificing some nonessential points. Under the circumstances, in order that we may preserve honor and meet our obligations and duties, it is necessary that there be concessions on both sides.

It is not too late now to make peace in the only honorable way in which it can be made, in accordance with our pledges and obligations and with our own and the world's best interests. All that is required is mutual concession between the President and the Senate and ratification in a manner acceptable to our associates in the war. The welfare of mankind waits upon this conclusion.

BY ORDER OF THE KAISER.

It was by Kaiser Wilhelm's personal command, issued Jan. 9, 1917, that the U-boat campaign of lawlessness which brought the United States into the war was launched. The order bearing his signature, a copy of which was secured from the files of the German Foreign Office, reads:

(Strictly Secret)
General Headquarters, Jan. 9, 1917.
I order the unrestricted submarine war to be started with full energy on Feb. 1. You must make all necessary preparations immediately in such a way that this purpose is not prematurely recognized by the enemy and the neutrals. The essential plans of operations are to be submitted to me. A copy of this is to be sent to the Imperial Chancellor.
WILHELM I, K.

The evidence leaves no room for dispute or evasion. It was not over the Kaiser's protest or in disregard of his scruples, as has sometimes been pretended, that Germany was committed to the plan, but with his approval and by his direct order, delivered three weeks in advance.

TCHITCHERIN DEFIES THE LEAGUE.

With a view to determine to what extent, if any, conditions in Russia justify a resumption of commercial or diplomatic relations, the League of Nations recently decided to dispatch a commission to make an investigation. In pursuance of the plan the Secretary-General sent a communication to the Soviet Government informing it of the purpose and demanding complete freedom of movement for its commissioners. In reply Tchitcherin, Soviet Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, has sent the following:

We cannot permit these gentlemen to come into Russia in any such guise. The Soviet Government, like schoolboys, and, in our defense, it will be necessary for us to control their movements. Any investigation that is to be conducted must be compatible with the dignity of the Soviet Government.

In this narrative of events will be seen a perplexing situation involving the effectiveness of Article VII of the League of Nations covenant. This article, in its applicable paragraph, says:

Representatives of the members of the League and officials of the League, when engaged on the business of the League shall enjoy diplomatic privileges and immunities.
That is to say, that whenever a League representative appears in any country on League business he shall be free to come and go without being subject to the local jurisdiction, civil or criminal, and that he must receive all courtesies customarily accorded diplomatic agents. Tchitcherin, however, not only defies this article of the League in the matter of according commissioners freedom of movement; he even denies them the right of entry into Soviet Russia for the purpose of making an independent investigation. And it is said the League's proposal will be abandoned.

It is not encouraging to those who have expected an energetic League to find precedents of this character.

AT THE CITY'S BIG BOX OFFICE.

The New York Sun has discovered that the city taxes in its town, over whose increasing burden is much complaint, amounts to about $22,000,000 for each month of this year.

It has also discovered that in the month of January of the present year the total box-office receipts of all the theaters in the town amounted to $7,838,914. Without disparaging the value received given for the $7,838,914, the Sun contrasts it with the value received given for the $22,000,000. Theaters, it says in effect, offer a performance lasting but a few hours a day. The city gives a continuous performance lasting night and day for every day in the year.

The quality of the performance given in return for the current tax money paid into the city box office is, of course, most beneficial and valuable, in New York or any other representative American city. But contrast even this continuous performance with the one which St. Louis will be enabled to give if the proceeds of the $24,000,000 bond issue can be paid into its box office.

The one continuous performance will cease, if for any reason there is failure to deliver the annual tax collections at the box-office window. The other is a continuous performance in a different and more definite sense. Many of the improvements for which the bonds will provide will be of daily advantage during countless cycles of tax paying. The grade crossings, once separated, will never again place life in jeopardy. The transformed and beautified dirt canyon of the Des Peres, the new acres added to park areas, the betterments in the city plan, the improvements along the Mississippi's levee, will be features of the physical St. Louis as long as a St. Louis endures. This continuous performance goes on uninterruptedly forever.

Comparisons between the cost of evanescent frivolities and vanities and the cost of more substantial things are doubtless made so often that something of their effect is lost by repetition. But a time has now come for weighing the trifling and temporary advantages constantly purchased at great cost with inestimable lasting advantages purchasable at even lessened cost.

More money is wasted, in an economic sense, in St. Louis every year, that is, devoted to purposes easily dispensed with, than the total bond issue will amount to. Is the bond issue to be voted down while the expenditure lavished on vain things continues?

THE SOUTH'S NEW LEADVILLES.

Leadville, Colo., once a symbol of the rapid community growth and prosperity of the West, had 12,445 population under the 1900 census. Under the 1910 count its population had declined to 7598. This year it has but 4959 people. In the last 10 years it has lost 2549 population, or 34 per cent, and in the last 20 years 7486. But Tuscaloosa, Ala., is shown this year to have 11,996 population, a gain of 3289, or 42.7 per cent. Valdosta, Ga., has 10,783, a gain of 3217, or 40 per cent. Laurel, Miss., has 13,037, a gain of 4522, or 54 per cent, and Gadsden, Ala., has 14,737, a gain of 4180, or 39 per cent.

These and other towns of Leadville's approximate size 20 years ago are exhibits showing that some of the bustling prosperity that used to characterize and still characterizes much of the West, to the wonder of the casual visitor, is now being duplicated in the South. Many much larger, as well as smaller, towns than those of this class are exhibits to the same significant fact. And their rapid growth is explained by factors that will make it permanent.

BELGIUM ABANDONS HER NEUTRALITY.

Belgium has abandoned her neutrality, on which she relied for so many years, and which failed her so miserably in the end. Instead of depending on the guarantee of her neighbors, she will henceforth pin her faith to alliances with the great Powers, particularly France and Great Britain. An interesting testimonial to Belgium's loyalty to her neutrality pledge is shown in recent reports of the military. When Austria declared war on Serbia, the Belgian army was placed on a "reinforced peace footing." When Germany proclaimed martial law and Russia mobilized, King Albert called his troops to the colors. The Belgian plan of mobilization was designed to protect the country from danger in whatever quarter it threatened. Four guard divisions were placed in strategic position so as to hold an enemy until the army could be brought to the field. In this arrangement, one division faced England, one faced Germany and two faced France.

Writing of the failure of neutrality, Henri Pirenne, professor of history of the University of Ghent, says: "It is self-evident that Belgium can no longer rely on her former position in regard to Europe. The neutrality which was imposed upon her has become impossible. From an international point of view, it would be stupid to attempt to restore it; from the Belgian point of view, it would be to make her a completely independent state. Henceforth a system of alliances must secure her against the possibility of another German attack." These alliances must obviously be determined by the greater or less efficacy of the League of Nations.

"TOO LATE TO HOOVERIZE."

The Old Guard, to which Missouri belongs in the Republican party, is said to have given up hope of nominating either Wood or Lowden, but we are told that Missouri is still for Lowden. There seems to be no means of communicating the situation to the Republican organization in Missouri, nor has there ever been. It is always the last State organization to get off the last man in any race, and it will do it this time. The Republicans of Missouri, sticking to Taft in spite of the catastrophe looming ahead, had more to do with the Republican schism in 1912 than has been generally known. It is only by comparison with Missouri Republicans that Missouri Democrats seem to be alive.

JAZZ FANTASIA.
DRUM on your drums, batter on your banjos.
Sob on the long cool winding saxophones.
Go to it, O jazzmen.

Sling your knuckles on the bottoms of the happy tin pans, let your trombones ooze, and go hush-hush-hush with the slippery sand-paper.

Moan like autumn wind high in the lonesome treetops, cry like a racing car slipping away from a motor cycle cop, bang-bang!

you jazzmen, bang all together drums, traps, banjos, horns, tin cans—make two people fight on the top of a stairway and scratch each other's eyes in a clinch tumbling down the stairs.

Can the rough stuff now a Mississippi up the night river with a hoo-hoo-hoo-oo... and the green
lanterns calling to the high soft stars... a red moon rides on the humps of the low river hills... go to it, O jazzmen.

CARL SANDBURG in the Dial.
Wake the piano, rouse the dreaming banjos, kick the drums in the slats.
Let's go again, O jazzmen.

There is a man who thinks he can keep his feet still.
show him he can't do it... make his eyes roll...
make his middle go like calves'-foot jelly.

Shriek like Calypso seeing Ulysses coming, make him want to land something fierce, while she wriggles her pink toes at him—O boy!
you jazzmen, bang all together horns, waves, ships, men, vamps—make Ulysses forget he ever had a home or what time Penelope expected him in.

Enough of that din... now quiet the young Mozart in his grave...
a lark sings in the sweet field... and the daisies dapple the green grass with white little patterns of blossoming sunlight.
Go to it, O jazzmen.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

THE PLAGUE OF LAWS.

From the New York Sun and Herald.
ELIHU ROOT said to the Judicial section of the American Bar Association: "The real reason for criticism of the courts is not that the people have lost faith in the courts and confidence in our judges, but that they have come to where they want less and less to be bound by law." We do not believe, nor do we think Mr. Root believes, that the people are weary of the laws that have been respected throughout the centuries. What makes the people tired is the endless, useless mass of statutes, most of them never needed, born only to be forgotten or ignored. The people are made tired by the dull procession of commissions which waste paper and ink and the reports of which fill dusty shelves, but no helms or pockets. The people are tired by and of statutes, which they invent substitutes for human nature, for the Ten Commandments, for the common law and for the law of supply and demand. The principal offenses of today are against the law of common sense.

GRADUATION DAY EXTRAVAGANCE.

From the Ohio State Journal.
HIGH SCHOOL girls in many Ohio cities are showing sound judgment and high courage in their stand against extravagance in graduation day exercises. They are providing the State with an interesting and striking illustration of the triumph of thrift over recklessness, of common sense over foolishness. The girls are to graduate. Of course they will want graduation gowns and trimmings and extras. Any normal girl would and should desire to appear at her best at a time so important in her life as graduation day. ISIDOR

By Elizabeth Jordan

How a Phlegmatic
Slav Chauffeur Became a Red Cross Hero in Picardy...

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

His tuition went on without perceptible effect. Isidor continued hopelessly stupid, hopelessly untidy about himself and his clothes, and temperamental in his care of the car. Arthur appealed to his vanity in vain. He addressed him as man to man—also in vain. Only one thing moved Isidor—the threat of dismissal. Under the force of that he polished the car and even threw in a few dabs at the back of his own neck. He was therefore discharged quite regularly every night, and accepted again, without words, but after severe inspection, the following morning.

Isidor was getting badly on Arthur's nerves. The lieutenant was a high-strung chap, temperamentally edgy and with little patience for stupidity. His own mental processes were singularly quick. He could not, or would not, understand that the chauffeur was not willfully "putting him into a straitjacket," as he expressed it. He developed rapidly from a strict disciplinarian to a tyrant, from a tyrant to a nagger, and from a nagger to a rapier-tongued young Nero who gave his pupil neither rest nor mercy.

"Don't worry so much about him, dear," Mrs. Raleigh would beg. "I am sorry we took him on at all. But at least he is always prompt, and he does drive the car beautifully."

Here, in a sentence, were revealed Isidor's redeeming qualities—the two links that held him to his job. He was punctual and he was a born driver. He could do anything with his car. Even Arthur conceded this.

"You're safe with him anywhere," he admitted to his mother. "Of course, that's tremendously important. And he is really devoted to you, you know. He'd let you walk on him."

Devotion to "the lady" was Isidor's third redeeming quality. It was a devotion silent, dog-like and complete. He had never come in contact with anyone like her before. In some way he had begun to realize who she was and all that she stood for. To be her employee, to drive her car, was the supreme joys of his life. Discovering this, Arthur promptly worked upon it.

"Do you want my mother to be ashamed of her chauffeur?" he demanded.

Isidor stared. "Is she ashamed?" (He always spoke of "the lady" now as "she" or "her.")

"Of course she is, when you look as you do to-day."

Isidor disappeared. When he returned he was immaculate. He remained so for several hours. But even this hint he had forgotten by the next day.

The process of "licking Isidor into shape" continued. Under it both Arthur and his mother began to look haggard. Arthur's nerves, to use his own expression, became "jumpy as the devil." Isidor's eyes took on a new look—the look of a hunted man. Then Arthur made a discovery which brought matters to a crisis.

"Mother!" he exclaimed one night when the new driver had bloomed for a month in the garden of their lives. "I've learned the truth about Isidor! He isn't married! He hasn't any mother! He has no one support but himself. And he's spending his money gadding about at night, joy riding in your car!"

Observing her stricken silence, he nodded convincingly.

"It's true. I got it from Murphy. He's been watching 'the lad,' as he calls him. I met Murphy today, and he was full of it. He had seen some things himself, and a man who knows Isidor told him the rest."

"But why did he lie?"

"To get a job, of course. He loves to drive. He'd rather drive than eat."

Mrs. Raleigh sighed.

"Of course you'll get rid of him," suggested her son. "They tell me, at the garage that he has had the car out night after night till 2 or 3 in the morning. Shall I fire him?"

His mother sighed again. "No," she said, wearily. "I will tell him myself. Send him to me in the morning. I will give him a month's wages and let him go. It doesn't matter much, now that you're sailing next week and I'm going to France myself in a month or two. I'll use taxicabs until I sail."

Her interview with Isidor was brief but painful. It was very difficult, indeed, to convince the boy that she was really discharging him and that the discharge was final. He had been discharged so many times.

"I'm going to turn over a new leaf," he assured her, earnestly. It was not until she counted out his month's wages and handed them to him that he realized the truth. Then, after a terrified stare at her, a stare that haunted her for a long time, he stumbled from the room.

In the hall he met Arthur.

"Say, she don't mean it, does she? She ain't really firin' me, is she?" he asked with a last flicker of hope.

As it happened, Isidor looked particularly messy that day. Arthur surveyed him, and the scorn he felt showed in his eyes.

"She meant it, all right," he said, tersely. "Did you think she'd keep you when she found out you had lied to her and gone joyriding in her car?"

Isidor's head went down, then rose with a jerk. He looked straight at Arthur. To the horror of that practical young man there were tears in his blue eyes.

"You're—your sailin' tomorrow, ain't you?"

"I suppose so. Thinking of torpedoing the ship?"

Arthur spoke good-naturedly. He was sorry for the chap now, and exhilarated by the nearness of his own great adventure.

"No, sir," Isidor solemnly assured him. He hesitated. "She'll miss you, I wish," he added. "I could of stayed to look after her."

Arthur was slightly embarrassed. "O, well," he said, "my mother will be all right. She'll be in Paris most of the time."

Isidor held out a grimy paw. "So long," he muttered. "Good luck."

Arthur took the paw.

"Thank you," he said. "Good-by."

He looked a bit thoughtful as he heard the outer door close softly on Isidor. He had meant to give the cub some final advice, but control of the interview had slipped from him.

Fifteen months later Driver Isidor Synovitz of the American ambulance corps, "somewhere in France," stopped his car on the brow of a slight elevation in a shockingly shell-hole road and looked vaguely about him.

He was "lost," and his surprise over the fact was as great as if the same phenomenon had not occurred a dozen times before. Indeed, the tendency of Synovitz to mislay himself and his ambulance had furnished for more than a month almost the only comedy in the crowded lives of his associates.

How he had gotten into the service was a problem. How, having gotten in, he remained, was a still greater one. He was the butt of his comrades and the subject of half the amusing stories told at the mess table. It had once been seriously suggested that a large bell should be hung around Synovitz's neck as a means of tracing him when he disappeared. Others had a better idea than this. A large stone, they thought—a very heavy one—

At this point someone usually remembered that after all, Synovitz could drive his car most awfully well, and that he was willing to work 24 hours a day during the great final drive now in progress, which perhaps helped to explain his occasional difficulties in keeping to the right direction, and the fact that now he found himself and his ambulance on a strange road, starting at a new and uncanny landscape through the blue-gray haze of a Picardy dawn. There was as yet only the faintest light around him, but in it he could discover the bleak outlines of shell-tortured tree trunks and of far-reaching desolate fields, over which silence lay like a substance.

It was an unusual silence, a sort of waiting silence, as if the world in that moment had drawn a deep breath and held it suspended. Nothing stirred or moved. There was not the faintest shiver of the few leafless branches left on a poplar standing near. Under the moment's spell Isidor held his own breath, to listen more intently. Then he exhaled it with a gasp. A more deafening noise than he had ever heard or imagined threatened to burst his eardrums. The heavens leaped into flame. The earth rocked under his feet. Simultaneously the narrow round rim of the sun appeared at the far end of the desolate fields.

Isidor stood up in his car and stared. His mental processes were very slow, but the explanation of his situation was borne to him now in the thunder of mighty guns and the long screech of shells. He had blundered into an attack—a big attack. He was on the edge of it—no, he was actually in it. With each instant that passed the pandemonium around him was doubled. On the road in front of him, not 200 yards away, a shell buried itself and split the earth in the simultaneous explosion that obscured everything behind a wedge-shaped cloud of smoke and dust. Already the enemy was announcing his readiness to meet the attack.

Isidor got down from the driver's seat of the ambulance and dazedly looked around. He was not conscious of any special excitement, but he realized that he and his car made an excellent target where they were. It did not require a great sagacity to see the wisdom of moving to a less conspicuous position. He hurriedly backed the car down the slight hill and off to the right of the road against a frail shelter formed by the shattered trunks of two trees. Then he shook his head. That was not enough. Off to the left, some distance away, he saw a clump of trees that retained some of their foliage. He ran to them, stripped as many branches as he could, and, returning, covered the car with them. As he did so it occurred to him that it might be wiser to slip back down the road, either with or without his ambulance. But even as the belated thought came, another shell fell, this time in the rear, and he fell on his face and dug into the earth to escape its flying fragments.

He decided to stay where he was. The car was pretty well camouflaged. It would have to take its chance, and so would he. He locked the car. Then, taking a position behind one of the jagged tree trunks, he stood fascinated, watching his first big battle. He was seeing things—wonderful things—glimpses of heaven or hell—or both. Lights flared up in the sky. Rockets rose ceaselessly. New stars trembled on the shrieking heights—stars of blue and red and green. And in these lights were revealed the stark and grayish fields, the swamps and marshes, lit up by infernal fireworks.

Forgetting his shelter, Isidor strained his head far to one side of the protecting stump. His body shook under the pounding of his heart. For, yes, those moving lines out on the field before him were men—men like himself, men with loves and hates and ambitions and memories, men going into action in the face of this universal destruction, this avalanche of fire and steel.

From that instant he forgot everything except those moving lines. On them he kept his blue eyes, with their unwinking stare. The lines moved pretty fast, dropping, rising, going forward, dropping, not always rising again.

Time passed. It must have been a long time, for the sun was up now, lighting the sinister fields, the fat outlines of observation balloons, and even the beautiful lines of airplanes, high against the increasing blue of the sky. There was a slight lull in the action of the artillery, and in this lull the observer suddenly caught new sounds, which at first he did not recognize. Then they took on a human note, and at last he knew them for what they were—the shrieks of men in agony.

"Gee!" mused Isidor. "Them fellers is bad off. I guess I gotta git out there, some way."

Something that was almost a complete mental process took place in him. He returned to the ambulance. Morphine would be the most urgent need, he decided, with those cries still ringing in his ears—morphine and bandages and water. While he was selecting these a shell burst very close to him. Isidor wiped the mud off his face and surveyed with annoyance another huge crater in the road behind him.

He strapped his first-aid supplies to his back and took a final survey of the battlefield. His mental processes were again very slow and extremely elemental. Indeed, he was not conscious of thinking out things at all. His job was to "git out there to them fellers"—a task which, if unostentatiously performed, should be "easy."

He dropped flat, and, leaving the mutilated tree trunks behind him, crawled slowly out on the field. He had to make a little journey before he came to any of "them fellers," and it was an unexpectedly difficult one. He met all sorts of obstacles; shell holes, half filled with mud and water, remnants of barbed wire fences, the ghastly remains of dead horses, and, twice, the still ghastlier remains of dead men. Both had been dead for days. Very slowly it dawned upon Ambulance Driver Synovitz that he must be out on "No Man's Land," and that off there in front, a scant 300 yards away, those tangled twists of rusty wire with wide gaps through which khaki-clad figures were streaming, marked the beginning of the German lines. Something whizzed past his ear, whispering its tragic message as it went.

"What in hell am I doin' here?" reflected Synovitz, uneasily. "That was a bullet, that was!" He remembered his ambulance back in the road. It was his job to drive that ambulance, not to go crawling over the earth like a damned angleworm. A second bullet plopped into the earth beside him.

"Some boche has got me number," he decided. "He means me crawlin' here."

HOME ECONOMIES

By Mrs. Elizabeth Kent.

THE INVALID'S TRAY.

DURING convalescence people are more fastidious about their food than when they are well, and although proper food is always important it is particularly so during and after sickness. Usually the appetite of an invalid needs coaxing and stimulus. The more limited the diet is, the more careful that it should be made to appeal to the patient, and other senses than that of taste can be made to help in this tempting of the unwilling fancy. The food must be well-cooked, but it helps, too, to have it attractively served. The temperature at which it reaches the patient is very important, both for appetite and digestion. Hot dishes should be hot, and cold ones cold. The tray should be the right size, small for a bowl of soup and a few biscuits, but large enough for comfort, if a real meal is to be given. It should be set with a view to the patient's comfort, much in the same way as a cover at table. Place the plate in the center, the knife at the right with the cutting side facing the patient, and any other dishes where the patient can reach them as needed, with the least effort.

The linens should be spotless and as fine and snowy as possible. China, silver and glassware should be the shiniest in the house, and as small as can be used with comfort. An attractive color scheme carried out in pretty china, and a few small flowers or a single blossom appeal to the eye, and bespeak the thoughtfulness which does the sick more good than medicine; the result is a better appetite and a better digestion.

To Clean Combs and Brushes

HAIR brushes and combs are cleaned by dissolving a tablespoonful of baking soda in warm water and dipping the bristles up and down and running the comb through them. Wipe with a towel and place in the sun to dry. Or add a few drops of household ammonia to the water instead of the soda.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

More of Peter's Cousins.

'Tis sometimes just as well we're fated, To not know some folks are related.

THEN again it is very nice to know just who your relatives are. You see if you cannot be proud of yourself you sometimes can be proud of your relatives, and that is the next best thing. Anyway, that is what Peter Rabbit says, and Peter ought to know.

Promptly at the second morning of school Peter and Jumper the Hare were on hand to learn more about their family. Old Mother Nature smiled as she saw the eager curiosity shining in their eyes. She didn't wait for them to ask questions.

"Yesterday," she began, "I told you about your water-loving cousin, the Marsh Rabbit. You have another cousin down in the Sunny South who is almost as fond of the water. Some folks call him the Swamp Rabbit and others the Swamp Hare. The latter is the proper name, because he is a true Hare."

"And does he truly like the water?" asked Jumper, looking as if such a thing was hard to believe. "He surely does," replied Old Mother Nature. "He lives in swamps instead of marshes, but he is a fine swimmer and very fond of water. When danger is near he always makes for the nearest pond or stream."

"How big is he?" asked Jumper. "Just about your size," replied Old Mother Nature. "If anything, he is a little bit heavier. But his hair lies much smoother than yours and if you were sitting beside him you probably would look just a little bit bigger, but only a little. As in the case of his cousin, the Marsh Rabbit, the hair on the soles of his feet is thin. His toes are rather long and he can spread them widely, a great help in swimming. Being a good runner, he doesn't have to take to the water as his little cousin does, but he does take to it as the easiest way of getting rid of his enemies. The Marsh Rabbit and the Swamp Hare are the only members of your family in all the Great World who like the water and are quite at home in it."

Peter gave a wistful little sigh. "I wish I liked it," he confessed, "but just thinking of it makes me feel shivery all over."

"Me, too!" exclaimed Jumper. "I don't mind getting my feet wet, but to go in all over—ugh!" Old Mother Nature laughed. "It is a good thing everybody doesn't have the same likes and dislikes," said she. "Now of whom shall I tell you?"

"Our biggest cousin!" cried Peter and Jumper together. "The ones you told us yesterday are bigger than Jumper," added Peter. "It is hard to believe there can be any bigger than he."

The pleasant twinkle was in Old Mother Nature's eyes as she replied: "One of the hardest things in the world is to believe a thing of which you know nothing at all. Compared with these other cousins Jumper really isn't big at all. He seems big to you, Peter, but if he should meet his cousin, Snow White the Arctic Hare, who lives way up in the Frozen North, he would feel small. Snow White looks very much like Jumper in his winter coat, for he is all white but the tips of his ears, which are black but he is twice as big."

"Does he wear a white coat all the year round?" asked Jumper eagerly. "When he lives so far in the North that the snow and ice last most of the year he does," replied Old Mother Nature. "When he lives where the snow disappears for a while a summer he changes his white coat for one of gray." "But how can he live so far in the North that the snow and ice seldom melt?" asked Peter, looking very much puzzled. "What does he find to eat?" "That's a fair question," said Old Mother Nature. "Even way up there moss and other little plants grow in the short summer. In the winter Snow White digs down through the snow for these. He has long claws to help him in digging. He also eats bark and twigs of little stunted trees. I forgot to say that his coat is wonderfully thick and warm. But big as Snow White is, you have a still bigger cousin, the biggest of the family."

When danger is near he always makes for the nearest pond or stream.

"Who?" cried Peter and Jumper together.

SALAD GARNISHES

ONLY edible garnishes should be used for the spring salads. Olives, sweet green peppers or capers may be substituted for other greens in a salad. Stuffed olives, cut in cross sections make a splendid garnish, and tomatoes and beets make effective decorations. Hard-boiled eggs, sliced, make an appetizing garnish for potato salad.

Mrs. Solomon Says--

Being the Confessions of the Seven Hundredth Wife.

By Helen Rowland.

CONSIDER the Empress of the Beauty Parlor, how she flourishes. She dissembleth not, neither doth she flatter; yet, the Queen of Sheba in all her glory was not more powerful than one of these.

She greeteth the flapper and the dowager alike with sisterly condescension; for she knoweth all their secrets, even the hairs of their heads, and all their heartaches and domestic troubles; and NOTHING is hid from her. (For that which a woman would not confess unto the spouse of her bosom, she will confide to her hairdresser, without shame.)

Her hair is brighter than a May sunrise, and her fingertips are a shining light in a dreary world. She weareth 17 curls and is laughing. With her hands she worketh wonders and miracles, turning the blonde from ash to roan, and the brunette from chestnut to henna.

The dowager entereth her door a gray-moth in a wage-slave, and cometh out looking like a beauty chorus. The matron goeth in a hag, and cometh out a flapper; the flapper approacheth a babe, and departeth a vampire.

She removeth the obstinate freckle and causeth the wild eyebrow to lie down and be good. She beateh Nature at her own game, and giveth Time the merry ha-ha!

Others may sing thy praises and extol thy charms, but SHE telleth thee the TRUTH!

She saith: "Oh, my dear! What doest thou with ALL those eyebrows? For knowest thou not that eyebrows are passe, this season?"

"Alas, alas, thy cheek is rougher than a cave-man's manners, and thy brow is like a Turkish towel. Yet, it would not have happened if thou hadst used OUR cream."

"Go to! Thy chin saggeth and thine hair is as lustreless as a last year's joke. And WHO hath done thy finger-nails? For they are simply terrible."

"Verily, verily, thou art a SIGHT!"

And lo, all thy vanity falleth from thee, and thou art mightily humbled in thine own eyes.

Yet, princesses accept her judgments with humility and are NOT offended! For, in the Beauty Parlor, every woman cometh face-to-face with her own soul.

And the secrets of a Masonic Order are not more SACRED than the secrets of a Charm-Dispensary, where the women are gathered together in an inviolable pact, for the confusion of Men!

Then give the Hairdresser the fruit of her labors, and let her works praise her. For her price is above rubies! Selah.

Salad as Substitute for Dessert

A DAINTY salad, especially if made from fruit or green vegetables, often may be served to take the place of both salad and dessert. This is especially true of salads with sweet dressing.

HAVE you ever thought of that? Do you realize how thoroughly inexperienced she is in matters of this kind?

Do you want her to rely on some friend who, while kindly disposed, is in all likelihood not competent to advise her wisely?

Do you want her to be subject to the alluring stock offerings that promoters have a way of getting into the hands of widows?

Her interests can be safeguarded by making your policies payable to this Company as Trustee, under special trust agreement. Not only will the principal then be conserved but a steady income assured as well.

Think what it would mean to her to be told by one of our trust officers of this thoughtful provision of yours.

Write or call for one of our sample trust agreements.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY
By James J. Montague.

OLD CLOTHES WEEK.

Time was, when a coat that admitted the breeze,
When winter blew bitterly chilly,
And a peck-a-hoo shoe, with a toe leaking through,
Were the badge of the Wandering Willie.
Wherever you saw on the comedy stage
A man with a countenance grim,
And utterly shy of a collar or tie,
You knew him forthwith for a bum.

The watch dog, alert for a chance to display
His zeal for a punitive quarrel,
Would leap on the lad that was shabbily clad
With a menacing and menacing snarl.
He judged of a man by the clothes that he wore,
Increasing, with righteous delight,
The fluttering rags on the persons of vags,
And mostly his judgment was right.

But now when a man with a rimless straw hat
Aslant on an unbarbered egg,
A shirt that reveals many traces of meals,
And trousers that lack half a leg,
Comes sauntering past, it is best to withhold
Our taunts or derisions or jeers.
For the chances are strong that he's one of the throng
That's enlisted to fight profiteers.

The butcher, the baker, the limousine maker,
The grocer, the millionaire,
Appear on parade every morning arrayed
In the garments the 'bo used to wear.
And Wandering Willie deprived of the means
Of keeping himself in apparel,
Must stick in the shame of his last laden glade,
Or borrow a box or a barrel.

BREAD ON THE WATERS.

It is comforting to know that although millions of dollars were squandered foolishly last year, business men had the good sense to put a hundred and fifty million into newspaper advertising.

WHY BE STINGY?

The average small boy believes that all teachers should be paid so much salary that they could retire immediately.

Difference of Opinion.

"What did you think of the Senator's speech?" asked the low-browed citizen.
"I thought it was rather tautologous," replied the high-browed person.

"Well, if it taught you anything that's more than it did for me."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Pro Rata.

He was dining alone and had much time to puzzle over an unusual phenomenon he had noted.
"Why is it, Sam," he said, addressing the waiter, "that poor men usually give larger tips than rich men?"

"Well, suh," rejoined the wool-headed knight of the naivins meditatively, "looks to me like de 'po' man don't want nobody to find out he's 'po' an' de rich man don't want nobody to find out he's rich."—Country Gentleman.

Revenge on Landlady.

The beach was crowded with happy holiday makers, and the minstrels were so funny that some of the royesters almost smiled. "Uncle Eben" came around with the inevitable tambourine, leaving his companion alone in the field to tell stories about boarding house ladies.

Suddenly the black gentleman in search of coppers had his tambourine ruthlessly snatched out of his hand by a stern looking woman, who calmly swept all the money into her pocketbook.
"There, you impudent cork-faced fellow!" she cried, returning the tambourine. "Tell your funny friend who knows so much about landladies that I'm the one he forgot to pay the last time he was here!"—London Answers.

Revenged.

"I married my first husband for money and my second for love."
